TAKE YOUR TIME AND EXPLORE WHAT FOLKS IN MONTANA ALREADY KNOW.

Growing up in Montana, I never took for granted the spectacular wide-open spaces that make our state one of the last truly unspoiled places on Earth. Montana is still a place where you can walk for miles and see more elk, bear and trout than people. Our world-class rivers, majestic mountains and rolling plains are where I hunt, fish and hike with my family. We hope your travels will give you the same special memories we have from growing up here. On behalf of the people of Montana, we invite you to join us in exploring the "Last Best Place."

Steve Bullock, Governor of Montana

MONTANA

It’s time.

Most people don’t even know places like this exist.

But here it is, waiting for you to find it—mountains and valleys, bears and bison, waterfalls and trout streams.

The sky feels bigger here. The locals on downtown streets and well-worn bar stools are friendlier. And every once in a while, a herd of elk crossing the road causes a traffic jam.

You’re probably flipping through this guide because Glacier and Yellowstone National Parks are on your bucket list. And if you haven’t been yet, by all means, get to planning—they’re spectacular beyond words. But don’t stop there, because between them lies a world of nature, history and recreation worthy of a lifetime of exploration.

You’ve been dreaming of locking eyes with a bison. Of cresting the Continental Divide thousands of feet above the valley floor. Of skiing without lift lines. Of finally visiting a place like this.

Permission granted.

Montana. It’s time.

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK

Glacier National Park is the center of a vast collection of wilderness and natural wonders known as the Crown of the Continent. It spreads north into Canada’s Waterton Lakes National Park, south into the Bob Marshall Wilderness Complex and east into the plains of the Blackfeet Indian Reservation.

No matter how long your visit to Glacier, you’ll wish you could extend it. Those who have made the area their home will tell you they’re still exploring, crossing places and events off their bucket lists. Below, you’ll find a few things to add to yours.

CAN’T-MISS OPPORTUNITIES

The easiest and most popular way to see Glacier in the summer is by driving the Going-to-the-Sun Road. Completed in 1932, it is a true engineering marvel that climbs over the Continental Divide, connecting the west entrance at West Glacier to the east entrance at St. Mary. Even those visitors who never venture outside their vehicles are treated to views of turquoise glacial lakes, massive mountains and the park’s iconic wildlife.

Better than driving yourself, though, is a guided tour, either in a vintage 1930s convertible Red Jammer bus or with Sun Tours, which offers a Native American perspective.

Glacier’s scenery can also be explored on the water. Glacier Park Boat Company offers guided tours on five of the park’s glacial lakes in vintage wooden boats. These tours include views you won’t find anywhere else, as well as interesting stories about the park and the boats themselves.

Perhaps the most rewarding way to see Glacier National Park is on foot. Hiking the park’s 700+ miles of trails not only provides an opportunity to more closely connect with nature, but is also the only way to access the vast majority of Glacier’s more than one million acres.

Trails range in difficulty and remoteness from the wheelchair-accessible Trail of the Cedars boardwalk to the harrowing Garden Wall traverse to a myriad of multiday backpacking routes. Several of the trails in the park can also be explored on guided horseback trips.
DIGGING DEEPER

Several outfitters offer scenic floats and whitewater rafting trips on the rivers that form the southern and western borders of Glacier National Park—the Middle Fork and the North Fork of the Flathead River, respectively.

Both of these rivers also boast excellent fishing. If you’ve got a day to spend with a guide learning the ins and outs, Glacier can be one of the best places in the world to get bitten by the fly fishing bug.

Venturing out onto the park’s western border river comes with an added benefit—you’re likely to discover the remote town of Polebridge hiding near the end of the unpaved North Fork Road. This off-the-grid community is home to the famous Polebridge Mercantile and its selection of baked goods, a rustic eatery and access to Glacier’s northwest entrance. From here you can drive to the stunning shore of Bowman Lake, but it’s all hiking from there.

See or stay in at least one of the park’s three main historic log-construction lodges—Lake McDonald Lodge, Many Glacier Hotel and Glacier Park Lodge. If you’re a bit more adventurous, the Sperry Chalet and Granite Park Chalet are unique hike-in lodging options.
There are several charming small towns in and around the park—Whitefish with its picturesque downtown, Bigfork on the north end of Flathead Lake, Browning on the Blackfeet Indian Reservation and many others.

Also worth considering are the Hungry Horse Dam and the reservoir of the same name, the Bob Marshall Wilderness Area and a string of roadside stands featuring an endless array of delicious huckleberry products along US 2 between West Glacier and Columbia Falls.

Each of these and many places in between offer opportunities to find your unique Montana moment. For more detailed information, turn to the Glacier Country section on page 24.

Old Faithful near West Yellowstone, Gateway to Yellowstone National Park
YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK

The world’s first national park is one of the planet’s most unique collections of geography, geothermal activity and wildlife. Bison, grizzly bears and wolves live here among other large species just as they did in 1872, and thousands of geysers provide a backdrop for the historic lodges, mountains, rivers and canyons that make this one of the most spectacular places in America.

Yellowstone is enormous—more than two million acres—and fortunately, much of the park is accessible by car or RV. But to get the most out of your Yellowstone visit, you’ll want to stretch your legs on a hike or two, and make time to visit the charming small towns at the park’s three Montana entrances.

CAN’T–MISS OPPORTUNITIES

The roads in Yellowstone National Park form a large “lower loop” in the center, with arms reaching out to the park’s five entrances to make seeing Yellowstone by car easy no matter where you begin.

Geothermal activity defines Yellowstone in many ways, and dependable features like the Old Faithful geyser are rightly some of its most popular attractions. The Old Faithful complex includes a fantastic visitor center and makes a good first or second stop when driving the lower loop.

Many of the most interesting geothermal features can be found elsewhere along the lower loop, however. Norris Geyser Basin is north of Old Faithful and includes the rarely erupting but spectacular Steamboat Geyser. And Midway Geyser Basin includes Grand Prismatic Spring—stunningly colored by bacteria that feed on its boiling water and the subject of some of the park’s most iconic photographs.

The Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone is well worth the trip on its own, and can be explored several different ways. We recommend a short hike to one of the lookouts with a view of the Lower Falls.

Large animals are often seen from roads throughout the park, but the Lamar Valley is one of the most common places for successful wildlife viewing.
DIGGING DEEPER

We’ve only scratched the surface so far, but when you slow down, extend your stay and venture off the beaten path in Yellowstone, you can find some truly memorable experiences.

The family-style dining at the Roosevelt Lodge Cabins is a good start. Finding a secluded spring-fed river bend to test your fly fishing prowess is the next step, followed by a much deeper exploration of the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone and the area south of Grant Village.

Boat tours are available on Yellowstone Lake, where you’ll find that even a large body of water cannot quell the geothermal energy brewing beneath the Earth’s thin crust.

But it’s only when you begin to explore the more than 1,100 miles of hiking trails in Yellowstone that you unlock the true power of this primordial place.
EXPLORING THE AREA

It may take a little longer, but there is nothing in the world like the drive from downtown Red Lodge, over the shockingly beautiful Beartooth Highway and into rustic Cooke City and through Yellowstone’s northeast entrance.

West Yellowstone, at the park’s west entrance, is only a little way from Big Sky Resort, and from there it’s an easy drive to Bozeman, one of Montana’s cultural hubs and a good base camp for a Yellowstone trip.

The north entrance, including the original Roosevelt Arch, is in Gardiner, Montana. From there, a scenic drive north through the aptly named Paradise Valley and past Chico Hot Springs leads to Livingston, the original Montana railroad stop for Yellowstone visitors.

Much like the rest of Montana, Yellowstone is too big and full of surprises for you to just show up and lounge about—it’s a destination built for constant exploration. And between these mountains, prairies and rivers is your perfect Montana experience. For more detailed information on the area, turn to page 56.

WINTER IN MONTANA

When the snow flies (and fly it does), Montana is transformed. The majesty and solitude of our two national parks are often much easier to find under a blanket of snow. Our 15 ski areas are drastically less crowded than what you’re likely to find in other states. And the wildlife we’re famous for is sometimes even easier to encounter than in other seasons.

We’ve got mountains to ski or snowboard, ice to climb, hot springs to discover and trails to explore on Nordic skis, snowshoes, dogsled or snowmobile. Here are a few ideas to get you started.

Montana’s 15 ski areas fall into three categories: mom-and-pop hills with serious character and low-priced lift tickets, day areas with terrain to rival anything in the country without the trappings of a full resort and some of the biggest, best resorts in the country. And that doesn’t even include the endless backcountry ski terrain throughout the state.

All three categories have a secret weapon: they’re in Montana. Which means that after a day at Bridger Bowl or Big Sky, a snowmobile ride or a snowcoach tour to Old Faithful in Yellowstone is definitely on the menu. And don’t forget après-ski refreshment options as well. Montana ranks third in the nation for breweries per capita, meaning one of our 53 taprooms is certainly never far.

CAN’T-MISS OPPORTUNITIES

In Montana, four inches of snow might turn into the deepest day you’ve ever had on the slopes. Why? Because it also snowed six inches yesterday and four the day before that, lift lines are almost unheard of, and there just aren’t enough people on the slopes to ski everything off before noon.

Whether you’re gazing into Glacier National Park as you ascend Whitefish Mountain Resort’s Big Mountain Express, driving up to encounter Lone Peak towering above Big Sky for the first time or just finding that your legs get a workout more quickly than you’re used to, Montana takes skiing to another level.
DIGGING DEEPER

Cross-country skiing in Montana is the real deal, with hundreds of miles of groomed trails across the state. The Izaak Walton Inn in Essex is a quick drive from Whitefish and makes it easy to unplug as you explore its network of trails without TV or cell service. For cross-country skiing near Big Sky Resort, Lone Mountain Ranch offers miles of groomed trails, as well as sleigh-ride dinners as a perfect cap to the day.

Just inside Yellowstone National Park between Gardiner and Mammoth Hot Springs is an unmarked parking lot. From there, a half-mile walk along the Gardner River leads to the Boiling River, a spot where a natural hot spring mixes with cold river water to form perfectly heated pools for soaking along the river’s edge. Hot spring pools and resorts abound across the state as well. Chico Hot Springs to the north of Yellowstone and Fairmont Hot Springs northwest of Butte are both popular family-friendly destinations that will take the chill off.

In Glacier National Park, guided snowshoe tours and cross-country trails give new perspective to views routinely seen by car or on foot in summer. In Yellowstone, snowcoaches offer tours to passengers along the park’s lower loop, to and from the still-open Old Faithful complex. And in both parks, animals can be easier to track and spot against the fields of pure white snow.
Both West Yellowstone and Cooke City transform into snowmobile meccas during winter, leaving a layer of snow on the streets to facilitate easy transport by sled to and from Yellowstone’s entrances, your dinner and hotel.

If you’re looking to try winter camping, yurt rentals, available at a variety of scenic locations, combine the adventure of sleeping in wild country with creature comforts like a bed and wood stove. Throughout Montana, the northern tradition of traveling via dog power lives on with guided dogsled tours. Hold on to your hat—they move faster than you might think.

In Montana, snow is more than just something we have to shovel from our driveways—it’s a whole other season of opportunity to find the moments that make life interesting.

OUTDOORS & ADVENTURE

It's time. To experience Montana's vast outdoor playground. Whether rivers, lakes, mountains or prairies are more your style, getting outside is one of the best ways to recharge your spirit. With more than 3.4 million acres spread between 15 distinct wilderness areas, you’re surrounded by opportunities to bike, hike, camp, boat, fish, sightsee and more.

CAN’T-MISS OPPORTUNITIES

There are more than 3,223 named lakes and reservoirs in Montana. Flathead Lake, in northwest Montana, is the largest natural freshwater lake west of the Mississippi. It boasts quaint lakeside towns and water-based activities, as well as a healthy sailing community that throws the occasional regatta. To the east, Fort Peck Lake is a vast oasis in the prairie, with fantastic walleye and northern pike fishing, winter ice fishing and more total shoreline than the entire state of California.

Montana's rivers have inspired generations of fishermen, and more recently, whitewater enthusiasts. In western Montana, the Flathead River offers equal parts trout habitat and whitewater on the boundary of Glacier National Park. The city of Missoula has engineered a feature on the Clark Fork River called Brennan's Wave that lets kayakers “surf” in one spot and practice tricks.

The Yellowstone, America’s longest undammed river, follows I-90 across much of the state and also provides whitewater rafting, canoeing, fishing opportunities and more.

Hiking in Montana is endless, as you might imagine. For destination hikes to waterfalls in south-central Montana, Natural Bridge Falls and Palisades Falls are great options; in the northwest, don’t miss Kootenai Falls. For longer journeys on foot, the Absaroka-Beartooth Wilderness and the Bob Marshall Wilderness are both places where you could trek for days without seeing another person. Horse pack trips via area outfitters make these vast wild areas even more accessible.
DIGGING DEEPER

One of the less populated areas of Montana is home to some amazing, unique geologic formations. Makoshika State Park near Glendive is filled with scenic badlands and is also Montana’s largest state park, while Medicine Rocks State Park campground might be one of the most uniquely scenic places to pitch a tent in the state. When you’re in the area, visit the Terry Badlands Wilderness Study Area. There you’ll find the Calypso Trail, which features amazing spires and natural bridges.

For sublime beauty in central Montana near Great Falls, Sluice Boxes State Park is another place to bring your camera as you hike, fish, picnic or raft through the remains of old mines, a railroad and historic cabins lining the dramatic Belt Creek Canyon.

To see what was once called one of the most scenic stretches of railroad in the country, you’ll need a bike. Montana is the gateway to the Route of the Hiawatha Trail, which starts at Lookout Pass, alongside I-90 west of Missoula, and crosses into Idaho. The non-motorized route takes cyclists through open tunnels and over high trestles.

To see the biggest trees in Montana, head north near Libby, to the Ross Creek Cedars Scenic Area. These 500-year-old behemoths grow to 12 feet in diameter and 175 feet tall. A paved nature trail and extended day hike trail allow one to really experience the impressive canopy of an old-growth forest.

The best-kept secret in Montana might just be the Bighorn Canyon National Recreation Area, which straddles the border between Montana and Wyoming a couple hours south of Billings. Canyon walls more than 1,000 feet high contain the long, narrow Bighorn Lake, where boating, fishing and kayaking are all popular.
HISTORY & CULTURE

Long before the name Montana defined this place back in 1889, there were animals and people who called these mountains, valleys and plains their home. The stories of early inhabitants are examples of innovation and toughness shaped by necessity and survival, and ignite the history lover in all of us. Dinosaurs, Native American culture, Lewis and Clark’s Corps of Discovery, mining’s heyday and the settling of the West—they all happened right here.

CAN’T-MISS OPPORTUNITIES

The Montana Dinosaur Trail is a collaborative of 14 dinosaur-themed museums and state parks. Bozeman’s Museum of the Rockies hosts one of the largest collections of dinosaur fossils in the world, and farther east you’ll find gems like the Fort Peck Interpretive Center and Museum and the Makoshika Dinosaur Museum.

Much of Montana’s landscape remains unchanged since the Lewis and Clark Expedition’s historic journey across the West more than 200 years ago, and today it’s easy to fill your bucket list with monuments and interpretive centers built in their honor. Near Billings you’ll find the only remaining physical evidence of the corps on the trail at Pompeys Pillar National Monument.

In Three Forks visit the Headwaters Heritage Museum, and in Great Falls the Lewis & Clark National Historic Trail Interpretive Center.

Of course, the history of the West wasn’t lived by just one group of people. The Little Bighorn Battlefield National Monument, southeast of Billings off I-90, memorializes the U.S. Army’s 7th Cavalry and the Sioux and Cheyenne in one of the Native Americans’ last armed efforts to preserve their way of life. Both interpretive tours and self-guided audio tours are available. Farther west, near Wisdom, the Big Hole National Battlefield tells the story of the largest battle fought between the Nez Perce and the U.S. government.
DIGGING DEEPER

For those wanting to literally dig deeper, Montana is one of those rare places where you can join in on real paleontology in action. The Two Medicine Dinosaur Museum in Central Montana, as well as several others on the Montana Dinosaur Trail, allow visitors to dig for fossils alongside working field paleontologists.

The first major gold discovery in Montana happened in Bannack in 1862. Now a ghost town, Bannack State Park's preserved buildings allow you to relive the gold rush of the American West. Nevada and Virginia City operate as living ghost towns, offering hands-on family-friendly activities like panning for gold and stagecoach rides. Of course, some ghost towns have not been refurbished and require imagination as they stand the test of time—and those can be just as interesting.

Granite Ghost Town State Park outside Philipsburg and Marysville outside Helena are two of the best to get you started on a ghost-hunting expedition.

Montana's ghost towns aren't the only cities with history worth exploring. Butte, one of the largest cities west of the Mississippi in the late 19th century, was built on top of a gigantic copper deposit that produced most of the wire used to first bring electricity to the United States. The once booming Uptown Butte has a hilly, charismatic flair, but don’t miss a hidden underground tour with Old Butte Historical Adventures. For an underground mine tour, you’ll want to check out the World Museum of Mining.

Prairie sunset in eastern Montana
Montana is a big place—filled to the brim with natural wonders, charming small towns and breathtaking experiences, each different from the next. In fact, it’s so big and diverse that your breadth of travel options can feel a bit overwhelming.

To help you begin planning your visit, we’ve split Montana into six distinct regions. You should not feel restricted by their borders, but instead take inspiration from the way Montana’s geography has led to six unique collections of scenery, history, people and activities.

In the following sections, you can explore each of these regions in detail, creating an itinerary that matches your personal interests.

Montana is a special place, and one that we’re all still exploring. We hope you’ll join us here soon.
Glacier Country is the Montana that people who have never been to Montana tend to envision—woody, with alpine lakes and towering mountain panoramas; wild, with bison, bears and huckleberries galore. Glacier National Park, the quintessential postcard snap, does nothing to dispel this notion, while areas like the Seeley-Swan, the Bitterroot Valley and the National Bison Range in Moiese only bolster the region’s majestic reputation.

There’s no shortage of ways to soak up all this grandeur, either. For starters, you’ll see plenty just through your car windows, or, to shake the distraction of driving, the viewing car of Amtrak’s Empire Builder line. For a little recreation with your scenery, raft trips, horseback trail rides, bike paths, snowmobile trips, cross-country outings and downhill ski days all guarantee views and wildlife sightings. You can even put a few major dents in your bucket list here—tracking untouched powder on a backcountry snowcat adventure or gaping at high-altitude panoramas from a helicopter tour high above the Rocky Mountains.

While your overworked camera recharges, hit Missoula, where eateries serving up locally sourced products, farmers markets and chocolatiers mingle with cowboy bars and hunting supply stores. Or roll into Bigfork for gourmet cuisine, art galleries and golf. Whether you snowmobile or skinny-ski, eat sushi or bison burgers, swill microbrews or local wines, Glacier Country tends to feel like the Montana you’ve always imagined: often homegrown, occasionally cosmopolitan and always beautiful.

AT A GLANCE
+ Clearing the snow-laden Going-to-the-Sun Road in Glacier National Park is a serious effort: snowplows must battle the “Big Drift,” anywhere from 50 to 80 feet deep.
+ Every horse in A Carousel for Missoula in Caras Park is hand carved, and each horse has its own backstory.
+ The Bitterroot Valley is named for the bitterroot flower found there, the roots of which were once a staple food for the Flathead tribes. Now, it’s Montana’s official state flower.
+ Kootenai Falls, near Libby, is one of the largest free-flowing waterfalls in the northwestern U.S.
In the summer, Glacier Country is abuzz with fruit stands hawking homegrown cherries, glacier lilies blooming and boats cruising the region's many lakes. If you visit Glacier National Park in the summer, it's the most popular season with the most road and trail accessibility of the entire year. Arrive on bicycle in the springtime weeks to vehicles for a serene taste of Glacier. Note: it's a good idea to check road status before you come, as Going-to-the-Sun Road opens in its entirety only when the snow is plowed, which is usually mid-June.

Springtime in the rest of the region is a thrill for kayakers and rafters when the rapids swell with snowmelt. Go in autumn for hikes, bike rides and outdoor pursuits while the weather is still pleasant and the crowds are thinning.

In the winter, an ice fishing perch, snowshoe outing or cross-country ski trip affords views of snowcapped peaks, while a lift ticket or a snowmobile will actually put you on one.

HOW TO GET HERE

Take a flight into Kalispell or Missoula, or arrive on the blood-pressure-lowering Amtrak Empire Builder and rent a car. If you bring your own wheels, you'll probably drive in via I-90 or US 93 or US 2—watch for deer on the road in the evening.

WHAT TO PACK

Anything goes in cultural Missoula, where the clothing style can be dressy or casual. In art towns like Bigfork and Whitefish, clothing ranges from outdoorsy-chic to boutique fashion to just jeans. Everywhere in the region, pack layers appropriate for hiking, horseback riding, rafting and playing outside—wicking shirts, quick-drying pants, rain gear and polar fleeces are good bets.

Fleeces, parkas, snow pants and snow boots are customary for this region in the winter, although the valleys aren’t as snowy as Southwest Montana and Yellowstone Country. Beyond hiking boots and snow boots, don’t worry about bringing your own outdoor gear if it’s a hassle; there are rentals and outfitters for almost every recreational pursuit here.

CANADA & WATERTON LAKES NATIONAL PARK

Easy to forget sometimes, Canada is a separate country from America, so if you go to the Canadian side of Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park, you will need to show your passport to return to the U.S. Also, be prepared to pay a small entry fee at the gates of Waterton Lakes National Park.

PHOTOGRAPHING TRIBAL CEREMONIES

Powwows and dances have deep religious significance and typically do not allow flash photography. Be sure to have permission before snapping photos at tribal ceremonies. For more information on proper etiquette while visiting the reservations and how to best enjoy your experience, contact tribal offices at visitmt.com/indiannations.

WATER

Glacier Country is famous for its pure lakes and streams, but all that lovely water carries the very real risk of Giardia lamblia, an unpleasant intestinal parasite. Resist the urge to sample even clear-looking streams, and if you must, filter or treat your water first.

FOOD

Montanans in Glacier Country love to eat, as you’ll find in the plethora of friendly cafes and widespread varied eateries. In the larger towns you’ll encounter creative fare like sushi, local-focused pizza and French and Thai cuisine. In more rural locales, look for small country cafes and steakhouses.
PLACES TO GO

COMMUNITIES

BIGFORK  Hugging the sparkling blue bay where the Swan River flows into Flathead Lake, this picturesque, almost storybook-like community charms with its world-class art galleries, fine dining and live theater. Named “One of the 100 Best Small Art Towns” in the nation, this community truly loves the arts, as noted by its numerous galleries and Bigfork Summer Playhouse. And while this thriving community welcomes visitors with 50 shops, 25 restaurants and 16 galleries, it’s also a great launching point for playing on Flathead Lake. Winter offers great snowmobiling opportunities between Flathead Lake and Swan Lake in the Crane Mountain area.  406.837.5888  www.bigfork.org

EAST GLACIER PARK  is located on the Blackfeet Indian Reservation, which is home to the Amskapi Pikuni Band of the Blackfeet Nation. Learn about East Glacier Park and the surrounding area’s historical and cultural significance to the Blackfeet by saddling up with Glacier Gateways Trailrides on a guided horseback trip into the heart of this American Indian land. Or hop onboard a Sun Tours bus and see Glacier National Park—the “Backbone of the World”—from the perspective of the Blackfeet people. Take on grand vistas, unique geology and abundant wildlife-viewing by driving the Looking Glass Road (MT 49), which starts at the aspen prairie edge near East Glacier Park. If you plan to get off the road to explore, make sure you purchase a $10 recreation permit at one of the local shops in East Glacier Park or Browning. Permits are required to access tribal lands for hiking. After the drive, stop at one of the local restaurants for a bison burger or huckleberry shake.  406.226.4403  www.eastglacierpark.info

EUREKA is tucked away in Montana’s northwest corner along the Tobacco River. It’s easy to while away the hours exploring the downtown shops and cafes. Learn about area history at the Tobacco Valley Historical Village, where you’ll find a unique collection of buildings and other structures from the 1880s to 1920s. Ten Lakes Scenic Area treats visitors to mountain drives, pristine lakes and abundant fishing. Also located nearby is Lake Koocanusa and the Lake Koocanusa Scenic Byway. Surrounding Forest Service lands offer miles of hiking trails, fishing, camping, groomed snowmobile trails and cross-country skiing.  406.889.4636  www.welcome2eureka.com

HAMILTON  Anchoring the Bitterroot Valley is Hamilton, the central trade area for hundreds of small farms, ranches and orchards that fill the valley. Hamilton is the hub of the local arts scene for the valley, with community theater, live music at local pubs and a hopping downtown. It’s also Montana’s gateway to the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness and offers a number of other year-round recreational attractions.  406.363.2400  www.bitterrootchamber.com

KALISPELL  Centrally located between Flathead Lake, Whitefish and Glacier National Park is the hub of the Flathead Valley and year-round outdoor recreation. A bustling community, Kalispell has a notable Old West charm that seems to effortlessly coincide with modern-day arts and culture. Stroll through the historic downtown district and explore its local studios and galleries. Visit the Conrad Mansion Museum, Hockaday Museum of Art and The Museum at Central School to learn more about the region’s history. Plus, time it right and you may catch the sounds of the Glacier Symphony and Chorale.  406.758.2800  www.discoverkalispell.com

LIBBY  Located in Montana’s northwest corner in a valley carved by the Kootenai River and at the base of the Cabinet Mountains Wilderness is the bustling community of Libby. Combining small-town charm with breathtaking scenery, Libby welcomes visitors to explore its surrounding area attractions—including Ross Creek Cedar Grove, Kootenai Falls, Libby Dam and Turner Mountain—and soak up its hometown allure.  406.293.4167  www.libbychamber.org
Glacier’s most famous attraction, the 52-mile Going-to-the-Sun Road takes you between the park’s east and west entrances. Along the way, you pass gorgeous granite peaks, waterfalls, serene lakes, historic lodges and more as you make your way to the top of the Continental Divide at Logan Pass.

The visitor center at Logan Pass points you to trails leading to backcountry destinations such as turquoise alpine lakes and backcountry chalets. In 1983 the Going-to-the-Sun Road was included in the National Register of Historic Places and in 1985 was designated a National Historic Civil Engineering Landmark.

The entire Going-to-the-Sun Road is open for two-way motorized traffic from mid-June to mid-September, weather permitting. Glacier’s shuttle system gives visitors an option to sit back and enjoy the scenery. Ride for free as often as you like. Guided tours are also available on the park’s historic red buses, or learn about the park from the perspective of the Blackfeet Tribe with Sun Tours. 406.888.7800 www.visitmt.com/glac · www.nps.gov/glac

View the Glacier National Park Video Series at visitmt.com/glaciervideos.

MISSOULA Sitting in a lush valley at the confluence of three nearby rivers is Montana’s cultural hub—Missoula. The city is home to the University of Montana, nine historic districts, funky boutiques, live theater and music, a symphony and delectable dining. It’s a prime launching point for outdoor recreationists who enjoy rafting, fishing, floating, hiking, golfing, snowmobiling and downhill and cross-country skiing. Head to Caras Park in the heart of downtown Missoula and watch kayakers play at Brennan’s Wave on the Clark Fork River. Other “must-see” attractions include the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation with its impressive displays, theater and gift center; the Smokejumper Visitor Center, where you’ll learn the science of fighting forest fires; and the Historical Museum at Fort Missoula. 406.532.3250 www.destinationmissoula.org

POLSON is located on the Flathead Indian Reservation in a natural amphitheater at the south end of Flathead Lake. This area of the valley is a prime cherry-growing region and home to numerous cherry orchards. The broad, sweeping Mission Valley south of Polson is bordered by the rugged, snowcapped Mission Mountains. The Flathead River features whitewater rafting and Kerr Dam. Also located nearby: the National Bison Range at Moiese, as well as the Ninepipe and Pablo National Wildlife Refuges for bird watchers. Two museums, The Miracle of America Museum and Polson-Flathead Historical Museum, offer many displays and memorabilia. Polson Bay Golf Course is nestled near the Mission Mountains. The vistas seen from Going-to-the-Sun Road are breathtaking as you cross the Continental Divide at 6,646-foot-high Logan Pass, and many guided tours of Glacier National Park and the surrounding area are offered out of West Glacier. Enjoy fishing, whitewater rafting, golfing, hiking, helicopter tours, horseback riding and much more. West Glacier is also one of the year-round stops on Amtrak’s northern route across Montana.

WHITEFISH Named one of the “Top 25 Ski Towns in the World” by National Geographic, Whitefish is located on the shores of Whitefish Lake and at the base of Big Mountain—home to Whitefish Mountain Resort. A short jaunt to Glacier National Park, Whitefish is a year-round destination with plentiful attractions and a mixed array of shops, coffeehouses, restaurants, community gatherings and kick-up-your-heels nightlife. Visitors can enjoy snowmobiling, skiing, snowboarding, hiking, biking, boating and live professional

SEELEY LAKE An outdoor adventure lover’s paradise, Seeley Lake offers access to nearby trails, lakes, streams, the Lolo National Forest and Bob Marshall Wilderness. In winter, Seeley is a mecca for snowmobilers, dogsledders and cross-country skiers, while the warm season attracts water lovers to the valley’s numerous waterways. To experience the Seeley-Swan Valley at its best, rent your toy of choice (bike, canoe, snowmobile) in town and let the adventure begin. 406.677.2880 www.seeleylakechamber.com

WEST GLACIER anchors the western entrance to Glacier National Park and provides a variety of visitor services including lodging, cafes and gift shops. The vistas seen from Going-to-the-Sun Road are breathtaking as you cross the Continental Divide at 6,646-foot-high Logan Pass, and many guided tours of Glacier National Park and the surrounding area are offered out of West Glacier. Enjoy fishing, whitewater rafting, golfing, hiking, helicopter tours, horseback riding and much more. West Glacier is also one of the year-round stops on Amtrak’s northern route across Montana.
THE BLACKFEET NATION is located in the northwestern part of Montana, bordering the Canadian province of Alberta on the north and Glacier National Park to the west. The Blackfeet, or Pikunii, belong to what is called the Blackfoot Confederacy. This confederacy consists of the Montana Blackfeet of Pikuni and three other tribes residing in Canada: the North Peigan/Pikuni, Blok/Keinai and Blackfoot/Siksika. Blackfeet call themselves Niitsitapi, meaning “the real people.” If you’re near Browning, stop at the Museum of the Plains Indian for a glimpse of well-curated artifacts and exhibits or buy authentic goods from the gift shop. The Blackfeet Heritage Center also has a wide variety of arts, crafts and jewelry. During the summer, the center offers art demonstrations from local artisans. If you want to learn more about Blackfeet history and culture, join the Blackfeet Cultural History Tour or take the self-guided Blackfeet Trail Tour.

FLATHEAD INDIAN RESERVATION is home to the Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes, which are a combination of the Salish, the Pend d’Oreille and the Kootenai. The reservation lies between Missoula and Kalispell and includes fertile valleys, towering mountain ranges and the lower half of Flathead Lake. The tribes are environmental stewards—the Mission Mountains Tribal Wilderness is a designated wilderness preserve. Permits are required for hiking, camping and fishing and are available at many local stores. The town of Pablo is home to The People’s Center—a museum that offers a vital, living encounter with Native American culture. The center features an exhibit gallery, educational programs such as beading classes and a gift shop with locally made crafts including beadwork.

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK is part of the world’s first International Peace Park (a distinction it shares with Waterton Lakes National Park, its Canadian neighbor to the north). And after visiting this park’s more than one million acres of natural wonder and beauty, you’ll agree that it is, indeed, a place of peace. Glacier itself is one of the largest intact ecosystems in the continental U.S., meaning wildlife—bighorn sheep, moose, grizzlies and more—thrives within the park’s borders. Hike 734 miles of trails ranging from wheelchair-accessible walkways through cedar groves to rugged backcountry hikes atop steep cliffs. If you don’t want to drive or hike, try a tour bus, take a guided horseback ride or climb aboard a scenic boat tour. Come winter, most of Glacier’s roads are left to pile up with snow except for a small portion of the Going-to-the-Sun Road from West Glacier to Lake McDonald Lodge and from the St. Mary entrance about a mile to the St. Mary Campground. The rest of the park is just waiting for you to explore via snowshoes and cross-country skis.

GOLFING IN GLACIER COUNTRY

Glacier Country offers the rare combination of renowned courses, stunning scenery and affordability. You’ll never be bored with the ever-changing countryside as you enjoy your game.

Golf Digest named the Flathead Valley area a “Top 50 Golf Destination.” Add to that a perfectly mild shoulder season, which helps make the courses available to fit into anyone’s vacation schedule, and you can swing your clubs here during much of the year.

Our typical golf season lasts from approximately May through October 15. These dates depend on weather and winter snowfall.

Weather in Montana can take sudden turns, from sunshine to showers and back again in the time it takes to play 18 holes, so always come prepared.

For more information visit visitmt.com/golfing and glaciermt.com/golf.php.
MARCUS DALY MANSION

Marcus Daly, an enterprising Irish immigrant and one of Montana’s Copper Kings, purchased the Anthony Chaffin homestead in 1886 to serve as his family’s summer residence. The mansion has over 56 stunning rooms, with 25 bedrooms, 15 bathrooms and seven fireplaces, five of which have imported Italian marble. The three-story, 24,000-square-foot mansion is situated on 50 tree-planted acres in the heart of the Bitterroot Valley in Hamilton. Open daily May through October, with special events occurring throughout the year.

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

ALPINE SLIDE, ZIPLINE TOURS, AERIAL ADVENTURE PARK, WALK IN THE TREETOPS AND MOUNTAIN BIKING

Start your Whitefish Mountain Resort summer adventure by grabbing a sled and racing down the Alpine Slide, controlling your speed through straightaways and around curved banks. Next up is the Zipline Tour—the longest zipline tour in Montana—with amazing views of Whitefish Lake and the Flathead Valley. Test your skills at the Aerial Adventure Park. Participants are fitted with harnesses and gloves, led through a safety and park usage demonstration and are then free to navigate through their choice of five courses of varying difficulty. For an elevated adventure, join Walk in the Treetops on a 2.5-hour boardwalk tour through the treetop canopy. Additional resort activities include hiking to the 6,817-foot summit—complete with a gorgeous view of Glacier National Park—scenic lift rides and nearly 30 miles of biking trails.

SNOWMOBILING IN GLACIER COUNTRY

The playground here is loaded: cruise snow-covered logging roads on Forest Service land, rocket across untouched meadows or dive into untracked powder. Don’t own your own sled? Area outfitters can rent you one of the latest low-emission models as well as clothing and helmets. Guides can show you the ropes and secret powder stashes, too.

Popular Snowmobiling Areas:
- Marias Pass Trail Complex with 45 miles of groomed and 35 miles of un-groomed trails between Cut Bank and Kalispell.
- Flathead Valley communities of Columbia Falls, Whitefish, Olney, Kalispell and Bigfork boast over 200 miles of groomed trails and nearly 60,000 acres of usable terrain on U.S. Forest Service land.
- Haugan, De Borgia and Saltese in the northwest corner of the state offer designated trails, open meadows and scenic views.
- Kootenai Country provides breathtaking views of the Purcell Mountains.
- Lolo Pass southwest of Missoula has 250 miles of groomed connecting trails in the Lolo and Clearwater National Forests.
- Seeley Lake area is tucked between the Mission Mountains and the Swan Range in one of Montana’s most popular year-round recreation areas.

HIKING AND SNOWSHOEING

With acres and acres of wilderness and unspoiled nature, take some time to explore the many trails in our state. No matter where you are, a hiking trail is just off the road or a short jaunt from town. For more adventure and backpacking opportunities, check out the longer and more rugged hikes. As always, be prepared for the weather and animal encounters before heading out.

JEWEL BASIN HIKING AREA Hike and fish to your heart’s content just north of Bigfork at the north end of the Swan Range in this specially designated hiking area that covers more than 15,000 acres and features 35 miles of diverse trails. Rocky peaks, alpine lakes, streams, meadows and wildflowers make this truly a “jewel basin.”

KOOTENAI FALLS SWINGING BRIDGE

The narrow bridge’s ropes and trestles span the Kootenai River just below Kootenai Falls, near Libby, which was the setting for the action film The River Wild. A forest trail leads from the highway parking lot to the swinging bridge, winding through the trees and offering great river views along the way. It makes for an easy hike with a great reward at the end. Closed in the winter.

ROUTE OF THE HIAWATHA TRAIL

The amazing Hiawatha Rail Trail is an inspiring 15-mile mountain bike trek cresting the Bitterroot Mountains, complete with spectacular views of alpine lakes and unbroken forests. With nine tunnels, including the 1.8-mile Taft Tunnel, and seven high trestles, the Route of the Hiawatha on the old Milwaukee road along Montana’s western border at Lookout Pass on I-90 is one of the premier rail trails in the U.S. Open Memorial Day through September. Rentals are available at Lookout Pass.

SKI JORING If you’re not ready to hitch yourself and your skis behind a racing stallion, rocket through an obstacle course and hang on for dear life at a ski joring event this winter, come watch instead—horse-powered ski joring might be even more thrilling as a spectator sport. Catch the action in late January, followed by the Whitefish Winter Carnival in February.
STATE PARKS Most of the state parks in Glacier Country are water-based recreation sites, so for those who like their fun with a little water, this is the region for you. Go to stateparks.mt.gov for information on area parks or to reserve a campsite, cabin, tepee or yurt at parks that offer overnight stays, or call 855.922.6768.

WINTER ADVENTURES When visiting in the winter months, don’t spend your time fireside until the end of the day. There are a variety of winter activities that don’t require a lift ticket. Try a motorless mode of exploring: hook up with a dogsled guide and hit the backcountry. If you want to stick a little closer to home, try ice skating at one of the local rinks or sledding on one of our many hills, or enjoy a sleigh ride through the forest.

SCENIC & WILDLIFE

BOB MARSHALL WILDERNESS COMPLEX This wilderness complex totals a million-plus acres, runs for 60 miles along the Continental Divide and includes a huge, 22-mile-long escarpment called the Chinese Wall. It’s a fantastic place to camp, view wildlife, hike, pick berries and more. One of the most completely preserved mountain ecosystems in the world, “The Bob” features rugged peaks, cascading waterfalls, shimmering streams, a towering coniferous forest and big river valleys. The area contains varying elevations of up to 9,000 feet. 406.758.5200 www.visitmt.com/bobmarshall

FLATHEAD NATIONAL WILD AND SCENIC RIVER The South, Middle and North Forks of the Flathead River form one of the nation’s longest Wild and Scenic River systems, encompassing more than 215 miles across breathtaking backcountry. Rafting, kayaking and fishing are all available. 406.387.3800 www.visitmt.com/flatheadriver

LEE METCALF NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE Located in the Bitterroot Valley south of Missoula, the refuge is surrounded by the picturesque Bitterroot and Sapphire Mountains and offers spectacular viewing opportunities of the landscape and wildlife. The refuge holds 240 species of birds, 40 species of mammals and 17 species of reptiles and amphibians. There are 2.5 miles of trails, including a quarter-mile paved path in the refuge’s wildlife viewing area. These trails go through meadows and woodlands along the Bitterroot River. Open all year. 406.777.5552 www.fws.gov/refuge/lee_metcalf

MONTANA SCENIC LOOP Straddling the Continental Divide of the northern Rocky Mountains, the nearly 400-mile-long Montana Scenic Loop has it all: spectacular mountains, extensive wilderness, abundant wildlife, vast plains and charming communities. At the heart of the Montana Scenic Loop is the Bob Marshall Wilderness—flanked by the Great Bear Wilderness on the north and the Scapegoat Wilderness to the south. The loop comprises three regions and 15 vibrant communities, each with its own special personality. All along the loop you will find a variety of activities, including year-round fishing. In the summer you can hike and golf in addition to many other activities. In the winter, explore a little more of the area on cross-country skis, snowshoes or even on a snowmobile.

NINEPIPE AND PABLO NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGES Enjoy spectacular scenery and wildlife, including waterfowl species such as mallards, northern shovelers, gadwalls, redheads and ruddy ducks, at these over 2,000-acre refuges and breeding grounds for native birds, both located south of Polson, within the boundaries of the Flathead Indian Reservation. Open all year with some seasonal restrictions. Check the website or call for more information. 406.644.2211 www.fws.gov/refuge/nine-pipe www.fws.gov/refuge/pablo

RATTLESNAKE NATIONAL RECREATION AREA AND WILDERNESS Located only eight minutes from downtown Missoula, the Rattlesnake Recreation Area offers hiking along creeks to mountain lakes or cross-country skiing through pine forests and parklands. Mountain biking, camping and fishing are available in designated areas. This premier urban wilderness blends the best of both wilderness and civilization. 406.329.3814 www.fs.usda.gov/lolo

Packing into the Bob Marshall Wilderness
Even when you’re not cross-country skiing to ghost towns, checking out the Old Montana Prison or digging for sapphires, you’ll stumble into history everywhere in Southwest Montana. It’s in the ornamental details of Helena’s West Side Mansion District, testament to boom-year prospectors who struck it rich (and in Reeder’s Alley’s one-room shanties, proof of those who didn’t). History is plentiful in Butte’s towering mining structures—homage to the “Richest Hill on Earth”—and in the Native American pictographs along the limestone cliffs at the Gates of the Mountains.

Southwest Montana’s ample outdoor options don’t skimp on history, either. Hikers at the Big Hole National Battlefield retrace the action on self-guided trails. In Anaconda, the Old Works Golf Course features antique processing works and black tailings piles discarded as early as 1884. Even quaint mom-and-pop ski hills, complete with home-grilled buffalo burgers and hot springs down the road evoke a bygone era.

This region doesn’t stop at offering a window into the past—it invites visitors to try it out. Sampling old-fashioned candies and pasties (a miner’s delicacy), taking in live plays at restored theaters and slumbering in historic hotels, travelers here tend to find themselves in a time gone by. Or has it?

AT A GLANCE

+ Around the end of December, Lewis and Clark Caverns State Park tour guides show off the caves the old-fashioned way—by candlelight. Generally the caverns are closed for the winter.

+ At the massive candy shop dubbed The Sweet Palace in Philipsburg, look upstairs for a tiny “chapel.” The owner jokes it’s where patrons can pray the calories don’t turn into pounds.

+ More than a few generations of Butte miners passed through the 43 rooms of the Dumas Brothel (now a museum in Butte), which started serving clients in 1890 and finally closed in 1982 due to tax violations.

+ At the Old Montana Prison Complex in Deer Lodge (now a self-guided museum), convicts were forced to build their own barracks and grounds in the 1890s.
fall and spring often provide gorgeous weather and dramatically fewer tourists.

Winter here means gathering at Southwest Montana’s less well-known (but no less terrain-packed) ski hills, zooming around on snowmobiles and schussing on cross-country skis (try Bannack Ghost Town for a unique ski trip). It also means bikinis—at hot springs ranging from historic to rustic to resort-y. Southwest Montana does receive ample snow in the winter, but roads and highways are generally plowed and safe.

BEST TIME TO VISIT

Montana’s mild, pretty summers are a popular time to visit, making for wildflower-strewn hikes, pleasant horseback rides and perfect golfing weather. Historic towns like Virginia City and Philipsburg are popular summertime destinations, so make sure to reserve your accommodations early. While there might be more patrons at museums, historic sites and popular recreation spots, “touristy” in Montana is a very relative term, and most visitors find our definition of “crowded” charming. Nonetheless, it’s easy to forget that they are actually delicate antique structures. On self-guided tours, take care and help preserve these treasures. Look, but don’t touch, and the towns might be around to impress the next century’s visitors.

HOW TO GET HERE

Both Butte and Helena host regional airports, and most drivers will come to the area via I-90 or I-15. Trucks ascending Homestake Pass east of Butte on I-90, often slow down to make the climb or descent. Sit back and enjoy the scenery.

WHAT TO PACK

Comfort is the deciding factor in this region, usually dictating plenty of layers and comfortable walking or hiking boots. In the winter, bring extra layers and a weatherproof parka (here, Gore-Tex will be more readily accepted than Gucci). Expect to see (and go ahead and wear) sweatshirts, tennis shoes, ball caps and jeans even at nice establishments. And when we say jeans, we mean Wranglers, Carhartts or Levis.

GHOST TOWN ETIQUETTE

As well-preserved and accessible as Southwest Montana’s ghost towns are, it’s easy to forget that they are actually delicate antique structures. On self-guided tours, take care and help preserve these treasures. Look, but don’t touch, and the towns might be around to impress the next century’s visitors.

MINES

Hikes in this area will sometimes take you right up to unmarked (and sometimes unobstructed) open mineshafts. While it’s highly unlikely you’d accidentally fall in while hiking, don’t let children approach or explore mineshafts. Montana’s mines are long abandoned and go on for miles—they’re not a safe place to play.

FOOD

Health-foodies, your best bets are in Helena and Butte, where health-conscious bakeries, coffee shops and cafes have been around for a while. Elsewhere, dig into European-style bakeries, hearty steakhouses and home-style cafes. Epicureans with a historical leaning should sample Butte, where pork chop sandwiches are legendary and century-old cafes (and newcomers) serve up the city’s signature dish and miner lunchpail staple: the pasty. (Courtesy of Welsh and Cornish miners, this buttery meat- and veggie-packed pastry is pronounced pass-tee, not pay-stee.)
PLACES TO GO

COMMUNITIES

ANAconda Sprang up when the giant Anaconda Copper Mining Company of Butte needed a smelter for its vast amounts of copper ore. Smelting operations were suspended in 1980, but “The Stack” remains an important landmark and state park. Clearly visible from I-90, the smokestack stands 585 feet tall, one of the tallest freestanding masonry structures in the world. Anaconda is a winter gateway community for the Discovery Basin Ski Area and Mount Haggin Nordic Ski Area, while Georgetown Lake is a hot spot for snowmobiling and ice fishing. Stop and visit the Copper Village Museum and Art Center or the ornate Washoe Theater to learn about the city’s rich history. Golf enthusiasts should visit Old Works Golf Course and play Montana’s only Jack Nicklaus signature course—a truly challenging experience. 406.563.2400

Butte Once known as the “Richest Hill on Earth,” Butte’s history is full of adventure with deep roots in its mining history, cultural diversity from immigrant workers and early days as a booming, precious-metal metropolis. Its colorful history can be seen in its preserved Victorian uptown business district and stately mansions on the National Historic Register. The Copper King Mansion, with 32 rooms of exquisite antiques and architectural detail, is a must-see stop on your uptown tour. The Charles W. Clark Chateau Mansion features changing art exhibits, marvelous collections and elegant architecture. The Granite Mountain Mine Memorial offers visitors a stunning panoramic view of Butte and the nearby mountains including Our Lady of the Rockies, a 90-foot statue on the East Ridge overlooking the city. The Mineral Museum includes a fascinating geological collection that holds 1,500 specimens. The Berkeley Pit, Butte’s largest attraction, has a viewing stand that allows visitors to fully appreciate the size of this former truck-operated open-pit copper mine. Wander through Hell Roarin’ Gulch or tour the Orphan Girl Mine at the World Museum of Mining. Check out the audio tour at visitmt.com/audiotour. 406.723.3177 www.buttecvb.com

Dillon and its surrounding communities carry on a centuries-old tradition of hospitality that began with the meeting of Lewis and Clark and the Shoshone Indians at Camp Fortunate. Today, the Beaverhead, Big Hole, Grasshopper, Horse Prairie, Centennial and Red Rock Valleys still offer much to see and do. The landscape is wide open and ringed with peaks over 10,000 feet high. The climate is cool and dry, and wildlife abounds. 406.683.5511 www.beaverheadchamber.org

Ennis is surrounded by three beautiful mountain ranges: the Madison Range, the Gravelly Range and the Tobacco Root Mountains. In addition to its majestic mountain views, Ennis also offers access to some of the finest fishing locations in the state, including the Madison River, which is renowned for its first-rate trout fishing. 406.682.4388 www.ennischamber.com
PEEK INSIDE THE RICHELLY ADORNED HISTORIC CAPITOL BUILDING IN HELENA TO VIEW LAVISH INTERIORS AND A GALLERY OR TWO’S WORTH OF PAINTINGS, INCLUDING A RENOWNED PIECE BY CHARLES M. RUSSELL. IN THE MASSIVE ROTUNDA, FOUR CIRCULAR PAINTINGS INTRODUCE YOU TO QUINTESSENTIAL NOTABLE MONTANANS—THEMONE OF CHIEF CHARLO, TO REPRESENT AMERICAN INDIANS; ANOTHER OF JIM BRIDGER, CELEBRATING TRAPPERS AND EXPLORERS; A THIRD DEPICTING A GOLD MINER; AND ONE MORE OF A COWBOY.

HELENA

An 1864 gold strike touched off a boom era that transformed Helena into the “Queen City of the Rockies” and Montana’s capital city, as seen by its 19th-century mansions, historic businesses and restored pioneer dwellings. The Last Chance Tour Train features informative, entertaining tours of the city that begin at the Montana Historical Society, complete with a lesson in Helena’s colorful past. Listed on the National Register of Historic Places, the Archie Bray Foundation was established in 1951 and is located three miles from downtown Helena. It was formerly a 26-acre brickyard, and is now internationally recognized as a gathering place for emerging and established ceramic artists. Helena’s lively performing arts scene includes a wide variety of entertainment to enjoy. Live! at the Civic, in its 85th year, has monthly performances in Helena’s Civic Center, and the Helena Symphony Orchestra, founded in 1955, performs 4 to 6 times a year. Canyon Ferry Reservoir, just 20 miles east of Helena, offers year-round outdoor recreation. Helena offers world-renowned geo-caching and mountain biking opportunities. 406.442.4120

LINCOLN

Is a gateway community for the Scapegoat Wilderness and provides access to the Bob Marshall Wilderness Complex. It’s a town where the wildlife wander right down Main Street. The Continental Divide bisects this region and gives you the best on both sides: the Sun River Canyon on the east slope and the beautiful Blackfoot Valley on the west. Stop at the Lincoln Ranger Station to view the taxidermy display of a large 12-year-old male grizzly bear weighing 830 pounds and standing about 8 feet tall. Lincoln is a paradise for snowmobilers, with trails starting right in town. The Ponderosa Snow Warriors heated clubhouse is the hub of snowmobile races and events in the area, which offers 250 miles of groomed trails and limitless play areas. 406.362.4949

PHILIPSBURG

Voted as one of the “ Prettiest Painted Places in America,” Philipsburg is home to the state’s oldest operating school, jail and opera house, all part of a walking tour of remarkable architecture. Granite ghost town, sapphire and ruby mining, a silver mining museum and a grand candy store, The Sweet Palace, combined with some of the friendliest folks you have ever met, will make your visit complete. Discovery Ski Area is conveniently located nearby. 406.859.3388

BANNACK

Located near Dillon, is the best preserved of all Montana ghost towns. Bannack, Montana’s first territorial capital, was founded in 1862 after a group of prospectors struck gold on Grasshopper Creek. More than 50 buildings line Main Street with their historic log and frame structures recalling Montana’s formative years. Bannack Days features historical displays, activities and events and is held the third weekend in July each year. In the winter, enjoy ice skating at the rink complete with warming hut. The visitor center provides tours and is open from Memorial Day through Labor Day and on weekends in May and October; the park is open year-round. For more information on the park or for camping reservations, go to stateparks.mt.gov. 406.834.3413

BIG HOLE NATIONAL BATTLEFIELD

The Battle of the Big Hole on August 9 and 10, 1877, was a turning point of the Nez Perce War, a five-month war in which U.S. Army forces tried to place one-third of the Nez Perce tribe on a reservation. Self-guided tours take you to many points on the battlefield. The walks each take about an hour. Ranger-conducted programs are offered in the summer; introductory presentations and exhibits are available year-round. Ten miles west of Wisdom. Open all year. 406.689.3155

CULTURE/HISTORY

BERKELEY PIT Over a mile wide and 1,800 feet deep, Butte’s Berkeley Pit is an open-pit mine that was created in 1955 to answer the huge post-war demand for copper. Now, after producing one billion tons of copper, silver, gold and other useful metals, the exhausted pit is slowly filling with toxic water leached from abandoned mine shafts. Oddly, the pit has also spurred life: certain fungi and bacteria strains have specially adapted to the pit’s toxic lake. These “extremophiles” are being studied for their ability to clean the lake and even fight cancer. Open March to November. 406.723.3177 www.visitmt.com/berkeleypit

EXPLORATIONWORKS, located in Helena, is an innovative, hands-on museum of science and culture, where learning is active, participatory and reciprocal. ROCKING OUT

Rockhounds in Southwest Montana dig up a glittering haul of buried treasure—sapphires, crystals, garnets, amethysts, quartzes and yes, even gold. In most hot spots there’s no need to feel guilty about swiping a few jewels—the supply is more or less inexhaustible. True, the abundance means you won’t get rich selling your all-too-common find, but the thrill of the hunt and the sentimental value of cutting your discovery into a one-of-a-kind necklace or ring more than makes up for it.

Many Montana sites are open to the public, and we’ve listed a few here along with what you can find in each location, but we recommend you contact the local Forest Service or Bureau of Land Management office for other opportunities.

PINTLER VETERANS’ MEMORIAL SCENIC HIGHWAY
This 63-mile drive goes through Anaconda and Philipsburg—one of Montana’s most historic towns—and by Georgetown Lake. The road travels through both conifer-clad mountains and sage-covered hills as it follows Flint Creek, and is a wonderful alternative to I-90 when traveling between Butte and Missoula. Special attractions include historic Anaconda, Georgetown Lake, Philipsburg, Granite ghost town, gem mining, fishing, skiing, camping, hiking, boating, biking and wildlife viewing. Open all year. Check out the audio tour at visitmt.com/auditour.

PIioneer MounTains sCenic byway Bring the video camera on this tour through the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest, south of Wise River, where you can travel the length of the Pioneer Mountains. Granite peaks topping 10,000 feet in elevation are to the east, with gentler, forested terrain to the west. You’ll view mountain meadows, lodgepole pine forests and broad willow bottoms. At Crystal Park, a unique area set aside for recreational mineral collecting, visitors can pause for a picnic and dig for quartz crystals. Stop at the interpretive sites along the byway for an interesting history of the Pioneer Mountains, and visit the ghost town of Coolidge along the way. In the winter enjoy cross-country skiing, downhill skiing and snowmobiling.

Red Rock Lakes National Wildlife Refuge
Treat your eyes to what has often been called the most beautiful national wildlife refuge in the U.S. The rugged Centennial Mountains, rising more than 9,000 feet above the Centennial Valley wetlands, provide a dramatic backdrop for this extremely remote refuge east of Lima. The inherent solitude and ideal habitat has made this the perfect place for reviving declining populations of the majestic trumpeter swan. Open all year.

When it comes to Central Montana, the question is, how far back in time would you like to go? To 1960s kitsch at the Sip’n Dip in Great Falls, a tiki bar with live performing mermaids? To Rockwellian winters, schussing the time-honored slopes of Montana’s oldest ski area? Or back to painter Charlie Russell’s frontier West, viewed from the windows of a dinner train? Here, you’ll experience Fort Benton’s days as a fur-trading outpost; Lewis and Clark’s 1805–06 Montana expedition; and Bear Paw Battlefield, where Chief Joseph resigned to “fight no more forever.”

This land of sunny wheat fields, snowy plains and rolling mountains can take you back to a time before human civilization, too, like Choteau’s Cretaceous days as a hip dinosaur hangout. Or go back farther still, to geologic time, when sandstone rock formations slowly emerged along the Upper Missouri National Wild and Scenic River, and the entire Rocky Mountain Front lifted into existence.

While Central Montana is home to 21st-century trappings like one of Montana’s largest wind farms, even everyday interactions here are tinged with a sort of old-fashioned charm. Chatting with the guy at the next ice fishing hole, swapping field notes with fellow birders and running into skinny-skiers on the trails, you’ll find folks warmly welcoming and unpretentious, much like the hotels, cafes, saloons and museums. In such a laid-back, unbustling place, it’s easy to feel like you have all the time in the world...maybe because you do.

AT A GLANCE

+ White Sulphur Springs gets its name from the natural hot springs in the heart of town. Historically, the springs were used by multiple Indian nations who regarded the area as a “valley of peace” to be shared by all.

+ Cornflower-blue Yogo sapphires hail from Yogo Gulch in the Little Belt Mountains (between Great Falls and Lewistown) and are prized worldwide.

+ The town of Ringling is named for John T. Ringling, one of the original seven brothers of the Ringling Brothers Circus. He financed bringing the railroad to Ringling.

+ Trek along the Montana Dinosaur Trail to see the first baby dinosaur bones found in North America at the Two Medicine Dinosaur Center in Bynum, and unearth mysteries at the Old Trail Museum in Choteau.
KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

BEST TIME TO VISIT

With Central Montana's uncrowded nature, any time is the best time to visit. That said, many claim that early fall and late spring are the best times to experience outdoor treats like hearing the elk bugle or watching the migration of tens of thousands of snow geese.

Winter brings a wealth of activities, from skiing on downhill slopes and well-maintained cross-country ski trails to cruising on an extensive network of backcountry snowmobile trails, and let's not forget the popular sport of ice fishing.

WHAT TO PACK

While there are plenty of beautiful 90 degree summer days in this area of Montana, the dry air makes for cool evenings, nights and early mornings.

(If you have a windbreaker, bring it.) Comfortable, understated, well-worn practical fashion is the norm, and the layered look is always in.

HOW TO GET HERE

Driving, you'll arrive on I-15 or one of the smaller highways. Take time to enjoy spectacular scenery, rolling hills and abundant wildlife. You can also fly into Great Falls International Airport or ride Amtrak’s Empire Builder passenger train across Montana’s Hi-Line with stops in Havre and Shelby. Public transportation in the region is limited; renting a car is strongly advised.

PASSPORT/PORT OF ENTRY

If you’re entering the U.S. from Canada, you must report to the Customs and Immigration Services and present a passport. Sweetgrass has a 24-hour port of entry, and there are several smaller ports with limited hours. 406.335.9559.

PHOTOGRAPHING TRIBAL CEREMONIES

Powwows and dances have deep religious significance and typically do not allow flash photography. Be sure to have permission before snapping photos at tribal ceremonies. For more information on proper etiquette while visiting the reservations and how to best enjoy your experience, contact tribal offices at visitmt.com/indiannations.

FOOD

Central Montana is cattle ranching country, and juicy burgers or steaks are menu favorites. Small-town cafes to gourmet restaurants offer the gamut from elegant to rustic. Save room for dessert via the new “pie trail.” centralmontana.com/pietrail
PLACES TO GO

COMMUNITIES

CHOTEAU, located on Montana’s Rocky Mountain Front, offers camping, swimming, shopping and golf right in town. Nearby activities include hiking, skiing, wildlife viewing, fishing, hunting and dinosaur digging. Choteau is surrounded by outstanding outdoor recreational opportunities in the Lewis and Clark National Forest and the Bob Marshall Wilderness Complex. The community has several taverns and restaurants, gift stores, clothing boutiques and art galleries. Bynum Reservoir and Eureka Lake are favorite local ice fishing spots. Teton Pass Resort, located 35 miles west of Choteau, offers 25 downhill runs, while the Teton Pass area has cross-country and snowmobile trails.

FORT BENTON was one of the most important early trading posts built along the Missouri River. Steamboats brought supplies upriver this far, but because of rapids, could go no farther. Cargo was unloaded here and taken by freight wagons to the gold camps at Helena, Virginia City and other places in western Montana. Today, Fort Benton is recognized as a National Historic Landmark because of the importance it played as the head of navigation on the Missouri River. Bynum Reservoir and Eureka Lake are favorite local ice fishing spots. Teton Pass Resort, located 35 miles west of Choteau, offers 25 downhill runs, while the Teton Pass area has cross-country and snowmobile trails.

GREAT FALLS is Montana’s third-largest city, known as the “Electric City” due to its numerous hydroelectric dams built on the Missouri River. The city sits among four large falls that were both a magnificent spectacle and a formidable barrier to early river travel. Grand vistas can be found in every direction; Great Falls is surrounded by mountains and buttes on three sides, as well as vast plains to the north. Nearby, Showdown Montana ski area, Silver Crest Winter Recreation Area, and Kings Hill Recreation Area provide exciting terrain for winter activities.

HARLOWTON is a convenient stop at the junction of US 12 and 191. Of special interest are the E-57B Electric Train Park and a pioneer bronze sculpture entitled And They Called the Land Montana. The Upper Musselshell Museum includes a general store, Indian artifacts, pioneer home and Avaceratops lammersi dinosaur display. Chief Joseph Park, off US 12, features camping, scenic walkways, a fishing pond and playground. The Judith Gap Wind Energy Center is located 12 miles north of Harlowton on US 191.

HAVRE is situated close to the Canadian border amid the wide panorama of the open plains. With daily Amtrak passenger rail service, it offers modern city conveniences in a remote setting, surrounded by vast and uncluttered plains. In the Bears Paw Mountains to the south is Beaver Creek Park. This 10,000-acre park, one of the largest county parks in the U.S., features rolling grasslands, wooded groves, rocky cliffs and rushing streams. There are excellent year-round fishing opportunities here and also west of Havre off US 2 at Fresno Reservoir. Beaver Creek Park’s scenic beauty attracts snowmobilers and cross-country skiers as well. If you’re looking for some “steep-n-deep” fun, try nearby Bear Paw Ski Bowl, just 29 miles south of town. The Rocky Boy’s and Fort Belknap Indian Reservations are nearby.

LEWISTOWN is an agricultural community located at the geographic center of Montana. Although mostly rolling prairie, farms and ranches, the Lewistown area features two beautiful mountain ranges, the Snowy and Judith Mountains, where grand 100-mile vistas stretch out in all directions. Four different lakes around Lewistown offer ample year-round fishing spots. Try the Big Snowy Mountains near Crystal Lake south of town for great snowmobiling and the Green Pole and Rock Creek areas for excellent cross-country trails.

SHELBY is 35 miles south of the Canadian border at the junction of US 2 and I-15. In the 1890s, Shelby was a trade center supplying cowboys and shepherders. In 1921, oil was discovered north of town, and, for a while, the town grew by leaps and bounds. While in Shelby, visit the Marias Museum of History and Art for a look at the area’s history, homesteading, a dinosaur collection and more. Marias Valley Golf Course and Williamson Park Campground offer outdoor recreation and camping. Deer, antelope, elk, foxes, golden eagles, grouse and the unique “sweet grass” can be seen in the nearby Sweet Grass Hills. North of town, Lake Shel-oole offers outdoor recreation and camping, and south of town is the Marias River, named after Meriwether Lewis’s cousin.

HUTTERITE COMMUNITIES

Follow the hand-painted “Fresh Vegetable” signs to locally grown products and a glance into utopian colony culture.

+ There are about 4,000 Hutterites living in roughly 40 self-sufficient colonies in Montana.
+ Hutterites follow the teachings of Jakob Hutter, a 16th-century Reformation Christian, and live in tiny agricultural colonies where hard work and modern farm methods are embraced.
+ The colonies produce and sell high-quality furniture, vegetables, soaps, clothes, preserves, eggs, pork, milk and butter. Most eggs in Montana come from chickens raised on Hutterite colonies.
+ Often a small hand-painted sign for fresh vegetables on the side of the road is your only signal to turn into a Hutterite colony.
+ In the colonies, you’ll find a lot of “quaint”—meticulously weeded gardens and tidy simple dwellings. Married men wear beards, while women wear modest (if sometimes bright) dresses and head coverings.

THE OLD FORTS TRAIL

Once upon a frontier time, all roads led to Fort Benton (the “birthplace” of Montana); Fort Assiniboine served as Montana’s biggest military outpost; and trappers, traders, bootleggers and American Indians traversed between both, along with the forts of the Canadian West.

Now, the original forts are mostly gone, but their replicas and the well-worn paths between them tell the tales of their important pasts. Following the Old Forts Trail, travelers traversed between both, along with the forts Forts Walsh, Battleford and Wood Mountain in Saskatchewan and Forts Whoop-up, Fort Benton (the “birthplace” of Montana); Fort Assiniboine served as Montana’s biggest military outpost; and trappers, traders, bootleggers and American Indians included is a fun walk and run. 406.622.2013 or 406.750.2918

BAIR FAMILY MUSEUM

Charles M. Bair came to Montana in 1883 as a conductor on the Northern Pacific Railroad and went into the ranching business in 1891. He made his fortune in the Alaska gold rush and went on to invest in mining, oil and real estate. Many of the antiques and works of art were purchased on his daughters’ frequent trips to Europe. A trip to the Bair home allows you to step into the life of one of Montana’s most prosperous families. Located near Martinsdale. Open daily Memorial Day through Labor Day. Limited off-season hours. 406.572.3314

FISHING Central Montana has some fantastic fishing. Experience fly fishing in peaceful streams and rivers or cast a line in one of the area’s beautiful lakes. Some of the local favorites are the blue-ribbon stretch of the Missouri River between Craig and Great Falls, Bynum Reservoir (Choteau), Arod Lake (Conrad), Beaver Creek Park or Fresno Reservoir (Havre), Ackley Lake, Carter’s Pond, Hanson Creek Dam, East Fork Dam (Lewistown), Martinsdale Reservoir and Bair Reservoir (Martinsdale), Lake Elwell (Shelby/Chester) and Lake Frances (Valier).

GIANT SPRINGS STATE PARK
Noted by the Lewis and Clark Expedition in 1805, Giant Springs is one of the largest freshwater springs in the world and flows at a rate of 156 million gallons per day. This is also the site of the Roe River, once listed in the Guinness Book of World Records as the world’s shortest river. Visit the adjacent fish hatchery, walk along the River’s Edge Trail or visit the nearby Lewis and Clark National Historic Trail Interpretive Center. All of these attractions are located along a three-mile section of Giant Springs Road recently designated as a Montana State Scenic Byway. Open all year. 406.454.5840

RIVER’S EDGE TRAIL Extending over 40 miles along the beautiful Missouri River in Great Falls, this trail offers spectacular views of Black Eagle Falls, Rainbow Falls, Crooked Falls and the Great Falls of the Missouri. The paved, wheelchair-accessible urban portions of the trail link many riverfront parks, boat launches, a waterslide park, a skateboard park and native open spaces on both sides of the river. Open year-round during daylight hours. 406.788.3313 www.thetrail.org

SMITH RIVER STATE PARK Permits are required to float this 59-mile stretch of the Smith River from Camp Baker (put-in) to Eden Bridge (take-out). This popular section of the river is noted for its scenery and red-ribbon trout fishery. On average, floaters take four days for the float. A minimum of two nights and three full days should be planned for normal water levels. From June 10 through July 10, floaters are restricted to a four-night maximum stay on the river once they launch. Floating the Smith requires careful planning, preparation and, of course, as mentioned already, a permit. Northwest of White Sulphur Springs. 406.454.5840 stateparks.mt.gov

SNOWMOBILING Kings Hill Winter Recreation Area is one of Montana’s most popular sports areas with trailheads to more than 200 miles of groomed snowmobile trails. Other areas offering great trails are near the town of Belt, the South Fork Waldron northwest of Choteau, Teton Pass area west of Choteau, Beaver Creek Park near Havre, the Big Snowy Mountains near Lewistown and the Little Belt Trail southwest of Utica. www.wintermt.com/snowmobiling

TIBER DAM-LAKE ELWELL Just east of Shelby is the Tiber Reservoir area. The lake provides excellent year-round angling for walleye, northern pike, sauger, native trout, ling, perch and others. For boaters and swimmers the area boasts over 178 miles of shoreline, a marina and five well-maintained boat ramps located strategically around the lake. There are also numerous campground areas. SCENIC & WILDLIFE

BENTON LAKE NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE covers 12,383 acres on the western edge of the Great Plains, near Great Falls. The refuge supports a great variety of waterbirds with both nesting and migration habitat. Up to 100,000 ducks, 40,000 geese, 5,000 tundra swans, bald eagles and peregrines may be observed in migration. A nine-mile tour route is open to the public for wildlife observation. The refuge is open all year. 406.727.7400 www.fws.gov/refuge/benton_lake

CHARLIE RUSSELL CHEW CHOOL Experience a spectacular evening as you travel by train through the mountains and prairies of central Montana. This three-and-a-half-hour dinner train travels through rolling hills, ranch lands, a half-mile tunnel and over two trestles and offers excellent wildlife viewing opportunities as well. The journey begins 20 miles northwest of Lewistown. Around Christmas, the dinner train is transformed into the North Pole Adventure, which is a holiday journey for families, complete with elves serving hot cocoa and cookies. 406.535.5436 www.montanadinnertrain.com

C.M. RUSSELL AUTO TOUR This auto tour uses Charlie Russell’s art to open a window to the Judith Basin area and its history. The basin truly fits the classic Montana description of high, wide and handsome. The auto tour is designated as the “Charles M. Russell Trail” and lies between Great Falls and Lewistown on US 87. Make sure to visit the C.M. Russell Museum located in Great Falls and the charming museums located in Stanford, Utica and Hobson. Open all year. 800.527.5348 www.visitmt.com/russellauto lead to backcountry trailheads, lakes, abandoned mines and other interesting sites to explore.

KINGS HILL SCENIC BYWAY Start at White Sulphur Springs and follow US 89 north to its intersection with US 87. Gravel roads intersecting the scenic highway.

MISSOURI BREAKS NATIONAL BACKCOUNTRY BYWAY There’s plenty to see and do on this 81-mile stretch of road east of Winifred. Take the Lewis & Clark and Nez Perce National Historic Trails or a side trip to the free McClelland Ferry across the Missouri River that runs April through October. Byway is open all year.

406.538.1900

MONTANA DINOSAUR TRAIL Enjoy six stops of the Montana Dinosaur Trail while in Central Montana. Choteau and Bynum (US 89), Rudyard, Havre and Chinook (US 12) and Harlowton (junction of US 191 and US 12) offer significant paleontology displays, and some have “hands-on” field digs. Open all year.

www.mtdinotrail.org

MONTANA SCENIC LOOP This route covers nearly 400 miles of spectacular landscapes and offers travelers the opportunity to see one of the most intact mountainous ecosystems in the U.S. The route encompasses the Flathead, Lolo, Helena and Lewis and Clark National Forests and circles the largest expanse of wilderness in the lower 48 states. Glacier National Park borders the northern section of the loop, and travelers can drive along the west and east slopes of the Rocky Mountains. Recreation opportunities are unparalleled along this route, and there are many small towns offering a variety of services. Open all year.

SUN RIVER WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT AREA The Sun River is one of Montana’s most beautiful and scenic rivers. Beginning in the Bob Marshall Wilderness, the river flows southeast to Great Falls where it meets the Missouri River. Not only will you see abundant wildlife, but you’ll also enjoy great fishing for trout and mountain whitefish as well as excellent boating on Gibson Reservoir. Open May 15 through November 30.

FOR THE BIRDS

Montana is full of bird brains—in fact, we have more bird watchers per capita than any other state. With its steep Rocky Mountain Front and miles of unbroken prairie, Central Montana provides ample habitat for hawks, geese, falcons, owls, sandpipers and other feathered fowl. While the chance to glimpse so many birds in one place is in itself remarkable, Montana’s heartland also gives birders the chance to scratch a few “bucket-list birds” off their list. The calliope hummingbird, great grey owl, Clark’s nutcracker and many other rarely glimpsed birds occasionally make one of their infrequent appearances here.

Dueling sandhill cranes

While birds can be spotted year-round, spring brings two treats for avian enthusiasts: the massive migrations of snow geese from Freezout Lake Wildlife Management Area, and the colorful courtship dances of the sharp-tailed grouse at Benton Lake National Wildlife Refuge.

In reality, almost all of Central Montana serves as a birder’s paradise, but we’ve marked a few likely hot spots just to get you started.

For more information visit centralmontana.com/birding.
Billed as “America’s First Playground,” Yellowstone Country is a study in appealing contrasts. One minute, you’re sampling Montana’s legendary “cold smoke” powder, the next, soaking toastily, neck deep in a mineral hot spring. Breakfast might be home cooked and served in a stockyard shack; dinner, gourmet sushi. Here, rugged peaks open to prairies, ski bums and ranchers rub shoulders with creative professionals and college kids, and you’re just as likely to spot a grizzly or a wolf as a progressive art gallery.

As for the region’s namesake, Yellowstone National Park proves no exception to the rule of extremes. Claiming nearly half of the world’s geysers, America’s first national park showcases tumbling waterfalls, calm forest valleys, roaring earth and intricate geothermal formations. This corner of Montana opens the door to Yellowstone in winter—a rare, otherworldly experience when bison wear frosted fur and geysers steam through a fresh blanket of white.

True to its contradictory charms, Yellowstone Country can be a plush safari or a dirt bagger’s paradise, all while living up to its “America’s First Playground” moniker. With luxurious mountain lodges and bare-bones Forest Service cabins, dude ranches and day spas, world-class skiing and self-guided hikes, Yellowstone Country offers an exhilarating taste of nearly every extreme.

Above: Snowmobiling at Two Top Mountain near West Yellowstone

AT A GLANCE

+ It’s perfectly legal to zoom around the streets of West Yellowstone on your snowmobile.

+ Enjoy the “Biggest Skiing in America” at Big Sky Resort with 5,800 acres of snow, 4,350 vertical feet and over 300 named ski runs to explore.

+ Calamity Jane—legendary army scout, prospector, prostitute, frontierswoman and star of Buffalo Bill’s Wild West Show—lived in a cabin at 213 W. Main Street in Livingston for a spell, as well as in Big Timber.

+ At Greycliff Prairie Dog Town State Park, near Big Timber, prairie dogs frolic, socialize and bark (to the delight of visitors) on a 98-acre protected habitat.
HOW TO GET HERE
Drivers will generally arrive via East or West I-90, while the jet set usually arrive at the Bozeman Yellowstone International Airport at Gallatin Field, a few miles outside Bozeman. West Yellowstone has flights in the summer. Car rentals are strongly recommended.

WHAT TO PACK
Layers, and lots of them. Yellowstone Country is characterized by cold mornings on even warm days, and snow-melting moments on chilly ones. No matter what season, a weatherproof jacket, sunglasses and a bathing suit will all come in handy. In winter, bring snow boots or high-topped hiking boots and an extra pair of dry shoes too. Fancy duds are hardly ever needed in Yellowstone Country.

BEAR SPRAY
When traveling off the beaten path in Yellowstone, recreating in some national forest areas and venturing off the Beartooth All-American Road, travelers are advised to pack bear spray. Pick this up at outdoor stores in town and make sure to read the directions. (Hint: don’t spray it on like bug spray.)

FOOD
Yellowstone Country pleasantly surprises most foodies. In Red Lodge, Livingston, Big Sky and Bozeman, you’ll find stores and eateries catering to gluten-free, organic, vegetarian and vegan diners, as well as the expected chain restaurants and small-town diner fare. A little local questioning will lead you to Latin cuisine, sushi, Thai food, farm-to-table establishments, fresh bakeries and chocolatiers. Outside of these metros, expect to be pleasantly surprised by the occasional gourmet offering, and ready to savor local fare in one-restaurant small towns. Montana restaurants sometimes serve up unexpected treats like elk, bison and wild game—if you haven’t tried it, now’s your chance.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS
To socialize like a local, check RedLodge.com, the Bozone.com, LivelyTimes.com and flyers at the Bozeman Community Food Co-op for concerts, operas, festivals and special events.

Yellowstone Country has four distinct seasons, sometimes all in the same day. Still, Montana’s unpredictable weather is what often affords pleasant surprises, like weathering a summer shower in one of Red Lodge’s microbreweries or getting discounted turns when the ski resorts open a week early.

In general, though, summertime hosts warm, not-too-hot weather and with it, the full gamut of outdoor recreation. This is a dreamy season of farmers markets, outdoor concerts, and sidewalk dining. Spring and fall are often the best deal—cheaper prices and recreational treats like sunny spring skiing or fall color hikes. In the winter, Yellowstone Country transforms into a snowy playground of ski resorts, sleigh rides, backcountry yurt trips and steaming hot springs. Don’t be afraid to visit Yellowstone in winter—snowcoaches keep travelers toasty while whisking them into a quiet white world seen by few tourists.
PLACES TO GO

COMMUNITIES

ABSAROKEE is 14 miles south of Columbus, on a scenic drive along MT 78. The banks of the Stillwater and Rosebud Rivers are nearby; the warm and friendly people you’ll meet will fill you in on the best places to wet a line.

www.absarokeearea.com

BIG SKY The scenic community of Big Sky is nestled high in mountain meadows, surrounded by timberland, the Spanish Peaks Primitive Area and the Gallatin National Forest. Majestic 11,166-foot Lone Mountain towers over this paradise and is home to Big Sky Resort. This lively village is a year-round playground for outdoor recreationists. Golf, tennis, hiking, horseback riding, fishing, mountain biking, whitewater rafting and ziplining are all spoken here. Big Sky is a prime destination for all winter activities. You’re close to Yellowstone National Park and some of the finest snowmobile trails in the country. Reliable, dry, powdery snow provides a quality cross-country skiing experience. Lone Mountain Ranch offers a staff of certified Professional Ski Instructors of America and the finest rental equipment to guarantee a perfect outing. Big Sky Resort allows skiers and snowboarders access to the “Biggest Skiing in America” with an astonishing 5,800 acres of terrain.

BIG TIMBER is the gateway to the Absaroka-Beartooth Wilderness and has some of the best blue-ribbon trout fishing in the state. Granite Peak, located in the nearby Beartooth Range, is the highest mountain in Montana at 12,799 feet. Activities and guided services for this area include ranch vacations, hiking, river floats, hunting, fishing, golf and the historic Big Timber Rodeo, held in June. South of Big Timber you can snowmobile the Boulder Canyon Trail, which follows a beautiful corridor that divides the towering peaks of the Absaroka and Beartooth ranges.

BOZEMAN It’s not easy to describe Bozeman to someone who’s never been here. It’s one of the most diverse small towns in the Rocky Mountain West. Bozeman is blessed with an eclectic mix of ranchers, artists, professors, ski enthusiasts and entrepreneurs drawn here by world-class, year-round outdoor recreation, Montana State University and a slice of old-fashioned Americana. Ranked as the #1 Ski Town in North America by Powder Magazine in 2010, Bozeman is perfectly located for the winter sports lover. Bridger Bowl, 16 miles north of town, offers some of the most exciting ski, snowboard and telemark experiences you’ll find anywhere. Just a bit farther down the road is Bohart Ranch with a 30 km scenic trail system professionally groomed for both classic and skate skiing. Bohart also offers snowshoeing. Or find your own trail—you can snowshoe anywhere you can hike or bike in the summer. Snowmobilers shouldn’t miss the ever-popular 120-mile Big Sky Snowmobile Trail between Bozeman and West Yellowstone. The ride goes through the Gallatin Canyon and a small portion of Yellowstone Park, featuring some of the best scenery around. If ice climbing is your thing, head south of town to Hyalite Canyon. With more than 200 pitches of naturally forming, reliable and accessible ice, this is a premier ice climbing destination.

GARDINER Gardiner is the original and only year-round, drive-in entrance to Yellowstone National Park and is known as the “wildlife capital of the West.” The town’s backyard is Paradise Valley. Need we say more? Sandwiched between the Absaroka-Beartooth Wilderness to the west and Yellowstone to the south, seasonal activities abound with a focus on the outdoors. Winter months allow you to access more than 84 miles of groomed snowmobile trails in the Gallatin National Forest. The Yellowstone National Park Heritage and Research Center in Gardiner houses the National Park Service archives, Yellowstone museum collections and reference libraries.

LIVINGSTON Located between the Gallatin Range and the Crazy Mountains, the town of Livingston is nestled along the free-flowing Yellowstone River. Main Street and the historic districts are reminders of the town’s bygone golden era. The downtown buildings from the 1880s and 90s still stand as a testimony of the Old West and give Livingston its special turn-of-the-19th-century charm. The Heart of Art in Montana—Livingston Downtown Gallery Walks occur on the fourth Friday during June, July, August and September from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wander from gallery to gallery meeting artists and enjoying refreshments.

BEARTOOTH ALL-AMERICAN ROAD

Even seasoned mountaineers tend to gasp at the high-elevation views on the popular drive (or legendary motorcycle tour) between Red Lodge and Cooke City.

+ Since the drive is a winding 65 miles, it takes a minimum of two to three hours and is best enjoyed as at least a day trip, with time to pull off at scenic points and enjoy a hike. The route is peppered with campsites and trails, and can easily be stretched into a multiday camping and hiking trip. If you plan to hike, bring bear spray.

+ Due to snow, the road is typically open from mid-May to mid-October. (That said, you’ll still see hitchhikers with skis well into June.)

+ The road soars up to 10,947 feet in the Wyoming section and 10,250 feet in the Montana section.

+ Called one of the most scenic drives in America, the Beartooth All-American Road features sweeping views of more than 20 peaks reaching over 12,000 feet in elevation.

Chico Hot Springs Resort, Pray
Bighorn ram in Yellowstone National Park

Want to try something tamer? How about Montana’s easiest-to-learn sport—snowshoeing—keeping you on top of some spectacular trails. Or drive a team of sled dogs to scenery that’s otherwise inaccessible. In summer, when you aren’t in the park, visit the shops in town or wander outside of town to Hebgen and Quake Lakes and the picturesque Madison River.

NOTABLE SITES

CHICO HOT SPRINGS RESORT, located east of Emigrant, was established in 1900 and is on the National Historic Register. Originally a hotel, then a medical facility, Chico is now a resort, complete with spa facilities and exceptional dining. Don’t miss the two open-air mineral hot springs pools, which were visited by guests such as Teddy Roosevelt and artist Charlie Russell. The resort is an ideal location for vacations, weddings, family reunions and business meetings. The winter season gives you local access to excellent cross-country ski trails or the unique opportunity to be in a sled or driving your own team of huskies—dogsledging through Montana’s backcountry without disturbing the land or wildlife.

PARADISE VALLEY Flanked by the Absaroka Range to the east and the Gallatin Range to the west, and with the Yellowstone River running through it, Paradise Valley is one of the most beautiful and serene drives in the state. Take the East River Road for access to campgrounds and hiking trails in the Absaroka Range. The drive from Livingston to Gardiner on US 89 is well worth your time and is a good route to Yellowstone National Park.

YELLOWSTONE GIANT SCREEN THEATRE Until you’ve been to the Yellowstone Giant Screen Theatre, you haven’t had the complete Yellowstone experience. The theatre boasts a six-story-high screen and 12,000 watts of digital-quality surround sound. It’s conveniently located beside the west entrance of Yellowstone National Park and the West Yellowstone Chamber of Commerce Visitor Center on 101 South Canyon. Open all year.

Eagle Mount
Eagle Mount works in cooperation with Bridger Bowl, Big Sky Resort and Red Lodge Mountain to provide quality adaptive lessons. All lessons are given by volunteer instructors specifically trained in adaptive techniques of mono and bi-skiing, 3- and 4-tracking, blind or visually impaired and those with cognitive or developmental delays. The program teaches skiers to become independent so they may one day be able to ski with family and friends. Adaptive equipment is provided with lessons, or a discounted rate is offered for those needing to rent equipment. Eagle Mount is a registered ski school through the Professional Ski Instructors of America, PSIA.org.

Backcountry Skiing
If you’re looking for a ski adventure, try backcountry skiing. With the proper equipment, a bit of hiking will deliver you to an alpine peak or mountainside gorge filled with untouched powder. Other opportunities to access the backcountry include snowmobile, helicopter or snowcat. For access and guide information visit wintersmt.com/snowcoaches.

Go With A Pro
Learn to ski with a pro. Lesson packages include two or three days of lessons, rentals and lift tickets valid over the course of the current winter season. Check out the list of participating ski areas around the state at wintersmt.com/gowithapro.
DOGSLEDDING  Make like the Iditarod and drive your own team of fluffy malamutes into the mountains. Husky hot spots are Big Sky and West Yellowstone. Some rides can take you to scenery that’s otherwise inaccessible. You can find everything from quick half-day sled outings with a guide to multi-night resort adventures with planned dogsled itineraries. www.wintermt.com/dogsled

FISHING  Browns, cutthroats, rainbows, brookies. Blue-ribbon trout streams—the Yellowstone, Gallatin and Madison Rivers—totaling 1,000 miles. Yellowstone Country has 61 state fishing access sites. Be sure to obtain permission before you enter or cross private land. Consult local fly shops for specific gear recommendations. Fishing permits are required and may be obtained at various centers around Yellowstone Country. 406.444.2535 www.fwp.mt.gov/fishing

HIKING AND BACKPACKING in Yellowstone Country is truly endless, with more than 100 trails in the Absaroka-Beartooth Wilderness, Crazy Mountains, Paradise Valley and Bozeman and Red Lodge areas. When hiking here, be prepared for unexpected situations and carry plenty of water and appropriate gear, because there’s a good chance you might encounter animals or unexpected changes in the weather. www.visitmt.com/hiking

RANCH VACATIONS  Yellowstone Country has over 30 working and guest ranches where you can have a real ranch adventure, complete with riding, roping, branding and cattle driving. Grab your hat, saddle up and hit the trail for unbelievable vistas and a genuine Western experience. www.visitmt.com/ranch

SLEIGH RIDES  Watch the winter dusk unfold to the tune of jingling sleigh bells while gliding through snow-dusted woods on a horse-drawn sleigh. There are various companies throughout Yellowstone Country offering sleigh rides. Some include appetizers or desserts, or a complete Montana-raised prime rib dinner illuminated by kerosene lanterns. Reservations are recommended. www.wintermt.com/sleighrides

SNOWCOACHES AND SNOWCATS  Get whisked away on a snowcoach adventure—they do the driving, you do the gawking. If the tour is through Yellowstone, your driver will stop for strolls and photo shoots and you’ll catch an entrancing earful about the park. If a toasty snowcoach seems a little too tame, bring along your skis or snowshoes. Combined tours mix ‘coaching and guided skiing, while a system of shuttle coaches cut straight to the chase, delivering skiers and snowshoers to trailheads throughout the park. Beyond Yellowstone, try snowcoaching’s burlier cousin, snowcatting. Snowcats climb high into the mountains, transporting lucky riders to a day’s worth of backcountry S-turns, a high-altitude gourmet dinner spread, a sleepover in a high-country yurt or some combination of the three. No matter where your snowcoach or snowcat takes you, rest assured: that place is a rarely seen, spectacular side of Montana. And you’ve got a window seat. www.wintermt.com/snowcoaches

SNOWMOBILING  Some consider this area to be the Sturgis of snowmobiling. Groomed and ungroomed postcard trails lure you into the backcountry. Feel right at home at sno-mo meccas like West Yellowstone, where you’ll see many of the same friendly faces (under helmets) every year, and nobody blinks twice if you ride your machine around town. Area outfitters can rent you one of the latest low-emission models, and usually clothing and helmets, too. Guides can show you the ropes and also (if you’re good) their secret powder stashes. www.wintermt.com/snowmobiling
WEST YELLOWSTONE BIRDING TRAIL Take in the awesome scenery and natural diversity of the West Yellowstone area and Hebgen Lake basin. The area provides a stunning array of habitats for birding and wildlife viewing. www.visitmt.com/birdwatching

WILDLIFE VIEWING Wildlife habits and personalities, weather patterns, mating seasons and time of day greatly affect the potential for viewing wildlife. Visitors who opt to view in the early morning or late evening hours have the greatest potential to see wildlife. Yellowstone Country viewing hot spots are Bozeman for birds and Yellowstone National Park in Mammoth and Lamar Valley for wildlife. Be safe while wildlife watching. Never try to touch, approach, chase or disturb an animal. Not only can interacting with wildlife endanger you, it can lead to their demise. Animals accustomed to human food and contact can become aggressive and must be destroyed if they can’t be relocated. Leaving empty soda cans and food wrappers behind is the same as feeding wildlife. If you see trash, please help by disposing of it properly. www.visitmt.com/watchablewildlife

YELLOWSTONE WILDLIFE SANCTUARY, in Red Lodge, provides a home for native animals that have been injured, orphaned or become too accustomed to humans to be returned to the wild. Residents of the center include mountain lions, wolves, coyotes, black bears, bison and other animals native to Montana. Open all year. 406.446.1133 www.yellowstonewildlifesanctuary.org

ZIPLINING Big Sky isn’t only for skiing. Any time of the year you can experience flight through the trees for an unforgettable memory. Experienced and entertaining guides take you via zipline over gullies, through forests and across the Gallatin River. It’s the ultimate adventure. Big Sky Resort 406.995.5769 www.bigskyresort.com

ABSAROKA-BEARTOOTH WILDERNESS AREA This part of the Custer Gallatin National Forest is a true paradise for hikers, anglers and horseback riders. The wilderness area adjoins Yellowstone National Park on its northern edge and offers more than 640 alpine lakes and hundreds of miles of hiking trails. Major access points are from Gardiner, Big Timber, Livingston, Red Lodge and Cooke City. Just out of Cooke City and Gardiner, you can access the Bannock Trail or the Bear Creek Trail System for excellent snowmobiling, cross-country skiing or snowshoeing. 406.522.2520 www.fs.usda.gov/gallatin

LEE METCALF WILDERNESS AREA is scattered across the Madison Range in south-central Montana. Experience great hiking, camping and wildlife viewing including mountain goats and sheep, black and grizzly bears, moose, elk, cougars and wolves. Cutthroat, rainbow and brook trout can be found in the lakes and streams. 406.522.2520 www.fs.usda.gov/gallatin

GALLATIN CORRIDOR This drive through the Gallatin Canyon from Bozeman to Big Sky and on to West Yellowstone offers gorgeous views on your way to Yellowstone National Park. There are plenty of side roads and trails to explore along the way, so plan ahead to make some stops and enjoy this scenic area. And don’t forget your fishing rod. The Gallatin River offers epic fly fishing. In the winter this is the perfect location for the snowmobile lover. Yellowstone National Park is just south of the Gallatin Canyon, and you can sled all the way to West Yellowstone on the popular Big Sky Snowmobile Trail.

Horseback riding, Lone Mountain Ranch
Missouri River Country might be the last chance in the Lower 48 to explore vast stretches of pristine landscape. Here, elk, deer and pronghorn antelope still graze the prairie, even outside the region’s many wildlife preserves. Rarely glimpsed birds flock here, sending birding geeks scrambling for their binoculars. Refugees from the modern world come here to escape blaring sirens and traffic jams, losing themselves to the seemingly endless great wide open.

Which isn’t to say there’s no one here. Tiny, outlying towns offer oases of homegrown hospitality as they work hard to preserve their history. From the biggest city, Sidney (population almost 6,000), to tiny Hinsdale (population 217), most towns maintain their own historical museums and host annual historical jubilees, ranging from fully costumed trapper rendezvous to frontier-themed celebrations. Thanks to the strong preservation mindset, you can still stay at the 1930s Fort Peck Hotel and take in live summer shows at the Fort Peck Summer Theatre.

Embrace all the elbow room, which affords unparalleled hunting and fishing year-round (especially at Fort Peck, a mecca for both ice fishing and warm-weather angling). Powwows and rodeos unfold under the Big Sky, while cattle drives, wagon trains and ranch stays captivate anyone who didn’t grow up in 4-H. From its abundance of dinosaur fossils to its real-deal Western bars, northeast Montana remains wild, peaceful and unchanging.

AT A GLANCE

+ Fort Union, near Bainville, was a center of peaceful economic and social exchange between Euro-Americans and the Plains Indians from 1828 to 1867.
+ Rolling Hills Winery, in Culbertson, is eastern Montana’s first winery, crafting wines from locally grown fruits like chokecherries, raspberries and rhubarb instead of grapes.
+ Just north of Malta, one of the best-preserved (and also one of the only mummified) dinosaurs was discovered, a 77 million-year-old Brachylophosaurus nicknamed Leonardo.
+ Fort Peck Dam is the world’s largest hydraulic earth-filled dam.
+ Just a few miles from the Canadian border, Scobey is home to Pioneer Town with 35 historical buildings.
KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

BEST TIME TO VISIT

The allure of summertime frontier festivals and hot dry weather is hard to beat, but some enthusiasts time their visit to northeast Montana based on the wildlife. In this part of the state, hunting counts as a season, bird watchers migrate here when the birds do, and anglers follow the hatches (and ice-ups). That said, some of the area’s best draws (like antique-ing, museum hopping and scenic drives) are enticing any time of year.

Winters here aren’t that snowy, but they can have cold temperatures. Fortunately, northeast Montana’s museums and friendly communities offer a welcome diversion from the cold. Then again, most locals embrace a little frostiness—ice fishing is a major draw here.

HOW TO GET HERE

Hop a plane to Sidney, Wolf Point or Glasgow or ride the Amtrak Empire Builder to Malta, Glasgow or Wolf Point or cruise in on US 2 or MT 200. Take in the enormous blue sky that covers vast reaches of plains, badlands and prairie wilderness. Gas stations may be hours apart, so watch your gauge and enjoy the view.

Also, it’s time to perfect the common road courtesy known as the two-fingered wave. When you see approaching traffic, lift two fingers of your left hand off the steering wheel until the other vehicle has passed. The other driver will probably deliver the same low-key salute.

WHAT TO PACK

Bring your play clothes (including cold-weather garb) and nothing flashy. Consider rancher dress: tough comfy jeans, flannel shirts, ball caps and cowboy hats and work boots. Bring your own fishing and hunting gear if you like, but there are outfitters scattered here in this land famous for prime fishing and hunting.

GRAVEL ROADS NEAR FORT PECK & SURROUNDING AREAS

If you see a single raindrop on the back roads near Fort Peck, head back immediately. These roads tend to wash out easily and getting stuck is a real possibility.

PHOTOGRAPHING TRIBAL CEREMONIES

Powwows and dances have deep religious significance and typically do not allow flash photography. Be sure to have permission before snapping photos at tribal ceremonies. For more information on proper etiquette while visiting the reservations and how to best enjoy your experience, contact tribal offices at visitmt.com/indiannations.

FOOD

In most of the little towns in northeast Montana, the local cafe or bar serves as restaurant and community meeting place. In many of these places you will not only get an amazing meal of steak, walleye or another local favorite, you will get a little bit of the local insight on where to go and what to do. Oh, and probably some amazing homemade pie to top it all off.

PLACES TO GO

COMMUNITIES

CIRCLE is located along the Big Sky Back Country Byway, which links the two major rivers in the state, the Yellowstone... and the Missouri. The town is very farm and ranch oriented. While in Circle visit the McCona County Museum, with thousands of interesting, historical items from the area. Its wildlife collection consists of over 200 birds and animals mounted and displayed in their natural settings. There are also eight concrete dinosaurs. An old schoolhouse, a church and a homestead house have been moved to the museum area. The old Northern Pacific Depot and an old caboose are also on the grounds. The museum is open May through September.

CULBERTSON is one of the oldest towns in eastern Montana. It was founded in 1887 when Montana was still a territory. Visit the Culbertson Museum and Visitor Center for information on the area. It offers a great collection of artifacts and historical photographs.

GLASGOW was established in the late 1800s as a railroad town. It is now a regional shopping and trading hub and has the largest full-service motel in the region. The surrounding area is full of scenic rolling plains and open farmland. Roads from Glasgow lead to Fort Peck Lake through the Charles M. Russell National Wildlife Refuge, home to bugling elk, herds of mule deer, red foxes, coyotes and songbirds.

JORDAN is your entry to the most remote and beautiful mix of deep river canyons, badlands and prairie wilderness in the West. The most rugged of the terrain is part of the 1,100,000-acre Charles M. Russell National Wildlife Refuge that surrounds Fort Peck Lake in a 200-mile-long strip. Wildlife abounds out here. The terrain between Jordan and Fort Peck is famous among paleontologists for its fantastic fossil beds. In 1904, a Tyrannosaurus rex was discovered near Jordan in the Hell Creek Formation. A member of the Montana Dinosaur Trail, the Garfield County Museum has a full-size Triceratops cast from the original fossils excavated just north of Jordan.

MALTA is home to ranchers, abundant wildlife and unlimited outdoor recreation. This town is one of the notable stops on the Montana Dinosaur Trail, with two excellent facilities—the Phillips County Museum, featuring a 33-foot-long skeleton of “Elvis” the Brachylophosaurus, and the Great Plains Dinosaur Museum and Field Station, displaying rare fossil fish, invertebrates, plants and a variety of dinosaur species. Nearby Nelson Reservoir is stocked with walleye, yellow perch and northern pike for excellent year-round fishing.

PLENTYWOOD is the trading center for the people living in the extreme northeastern corner of the state. Visit the Sheridan County Museum, completed in 1968, where you’ll find the historical flavor of Plentywood’s and Sheridan County’s early days. Thirty-one miles south of...
FORT PECK RESERVOIR

Only the most senior anglers remember a time without man-made Fort Peck Lake (meaning before 1933), but most can’t imagine Montana without the massive fishing mecca. The lake is Montana’s largest body of water, swirling with over 50 different kinds of fish, including walleye, northern pike, paddlefish, sauger, lake trout, smallmouth bass and chinook salmon.

Elk bugling at Slippery Ann Elk Viewing Area, Charles M. Russell National Wildlife Refuge

The lake’s ragged shoreline gives anglers plenty of places to look—at 1,520 miles, Fort Peck Lake’s shores are longer than the California coast. Beyond those shores, the Charles M. Russell (CMR) National Wildlife Refuge provides over one million acres of public land for fishing, hiking, hunting, camping, bird watching and other outdoor recreation.

Before you head out on the reservoir’s dirt roads, check the weather—a simple dirt road can become an impassable bog when muddy.

WOLF POINT is part of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation. The same blend of tribal and non-tribal residents (about 50/50) exists today as did in the early 1900s. The Fort Peck Reservation is home to the Dakota-Lokota-Nakota (Sioux) and Dakota (Assiniboine) nations. Today Wolf Point is a trade hub for local farmers and ranchers and a center for the Sioux and Assiniboine. Montana’s oldest pro rodeo, the Wild Horse Stampede, is held every July. Even before the term “rodeo” was coined, this was an event staged by American Indians for wild riding skills and celebration.

NOTABLE SITES

CHARLES M. RUSSELL NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE You’ll find bugling elk, herds of mule deer, bighorn sheep, red foxes and coyotes in this scenic refuge that stretches along the Missouri River. Songbirds, like the mountain bluebird and black-capped chickadee, are here in abundance as well. And bring your fishing pole. You’ll find walleye, trout, salmon, paddlefish, native to the Yellowstone and Missouri Rivers. Easiest access to the area is through the Pines Recreation Area, 30 miles southwest of Fort Peck. Accessibility is dependent upon weather and road conditions.

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

FISHING In Missouri River Country, you’ll spend your time wetting your line, not spinning fish tales. Trolling for walleye at the celebrated Fort Peck Reservoir or trying your luck from the shores of the Missouri River will give you ample opportunity for great fish stories. Fort Peck boasts over 1,500 miles of shoreline, and you’ll find peace and quiet, accompanied by a few friends and plenty of walleye, northern pike, smallmouth bass, ling and chinook salmon. Nelson Reservoir, covering 4,500 acres about 17 miles from Malta, is also home to record-size walleye, yellow perch and northern pike. Visit both reservoirs in winter for premier ice fishing. The Missouri and Yellowstone Rivers offer excellent opportunities for catching paddlefish and shovelnose sturgeon—prehistoric monsters that still live here today. For fishing regulations’ information, contact Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks at 406.444.2535 or the Glasgow office at 406.228.3700.  www.fwp.mt.gov/fishing

HUNTING Antelope, white-tailed and mule deer, elk, turkeys and other game birds are all quarry for hunters in Missouri River Country. Pheasants and grouse are abundant. Sage hens and ducks are also hunted here, in addition to sharp-tailed and sage grouse and Hungarian partridge. Wild geese land by the thousands along the Missouri River in the fall, making this area a goose hunter’s paradise. Medicine Lake is famous for the flocks of geese that land there. The wide-open spaces provide ideal hunting country, and the communities of Missouri River Country enthusiastically welcome hunters from near and far. Guest ranches and guided hunting trips are available. Remember, you must have permission to

DRIVING TOURS IN MISSOURI RIVER COUNTRY

Fort Peck Lake Drive
Follow a portion of giant Fort Peck Lake, which has more shoreline itself than the California coastline. Start at Fort Peck Dam, one of the world’s largest dams, and head south on MT 24 to its junction with MT 200.

Bowdoin National Wildlife Refuge

Medicine Lake National Wildlife Refuge
A 14-mile Wildlife Drive winds through prairie and wetland habitats, providing opportunities to view a wide array of wildlife typical of the northern Great Plains. A foot trail leads to a viewing platform equipped with all-season binoculars overlooking the white pelican nesting colony. Entrance to the Wildlife Drive is adjacent to the refuge headquarters and is open daily from dawn to dusk, all year. 406.789.2305 www.fws.gov/medicinelake

Charles M. Russell National Wildlife Refuge
This is one of America’s greatest wilderness regions. Some of the canyons are 1,000 feet deep and harbor elk, bighorn sheep, pronghorn antelope, deer and prairie dog towns. More than 200 species of birds and 40 species of mammals have been identified on the refuge. The self-guided tour takes you out near Lewis and Clark’s 1805 campsite and in the vicinity of the site of two historic frontier towns—Rocky Point and Carroll. Accessibility is dependent on weather and road conditions. For maps and information call the CMR at 406.538.8706, ext. 221. www.fws.gov/refuge/charles_m_russell

Leo B. Coleman Wildlife Exhibit
Off MT 117 is a loop drive around 230 acres that are home to bison, pronghorn antelope and mule deer.

MILK RIVER OBSERVATION POINT
East of Fort Peck on MT 24, just east of the spillway, a gravel road leads you to the bottom of a hill. Hike to the top and see for miles and miles. This is where Lewis and Clark sat and gazed down at the river below that looked “milky,” and therefore was named the Milk River. 406.526.3411

SLEIGH RIDES
All those Christmas carols were right. You may not exactly remember the lyrics, but you always remember riding a sleigh through the woods, watching the winter dusk unfold to the tune of jingling sleigh bells. Catch a sleigh ride at the Sand Creek Clydesdales Ranch in Jordan. 406.557.2865 www.sandcreekclydesdales.net

SNOWSHOEING
If you can walk, you can snowshoe. Montana’s easiest-to-learn winter sport can take you up spectacular trails just about any place there’s snow.
BIG SKY BACK COUNTRY BYWAY

Traveling through the Great Plains section of Montana, the Big Sky Back Country Byway traverses the vast expanses of land and sky that has earned Montana its nickname. With the Missouri River and Wolf Point at the byway’s northern end, and the Yellowstone River and the town of Terry at the southern end, this 105-mile byway is a great place to fish, hunt, hike and sightsee.

WILDLIFE VIEWING

The driving tours listed on page 76 offer excellent wildlife viewing. In addition, hundreds of elk congregate in the Slippery Ann Wildlife Viewing Area on the Charles M. Russell National Wildlife Refuge each fall (September and October). This area is along an excellent 20-mile-long self-guided tour, which can be accessed from two points along US 191. The tour takes about two hours to complete.

TRAILS OF OUTLAWS

The likes of Kid Curry, Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid, members of the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang (aka the Wild Bunch), Dutch Henry and others stormed a trail of devastation through eastern Montana. The Outlaw Trail, an intricate, loosely defined route of escape for turn-of-the-20th-century outlaws, wound through eastern Montana on its way from Canada to Mexico.

PISCINE PURSUITS, ON ICE

What’s more fun than luring reluctant fish up from under the ice? Having oodles of other similarly minded folks out there with you to clink cocoa cups with. Ice fishing tournaments attract winter anglers to swap tales, raise funds for worthy causes and win bragging rights (and major cash) with a grand prize. At tournaments with pre-drilling, you don’t even have to cut your own hole. But you do have to bring your own fur (or faux fur) hat.

Hell Creek badlands
Nowhere does cowboy culture and American Indian lore live on like it does in Southeast Montana. While this region is largely made up of ranch land and rural communities, Southeast Montana’s spectacular badlands and rolling prairie play host to real-life cattle drives and rodeos, wild-horse stampedes and powwows. Southeast Montana is also a land of contrasts. It is home to Billings, the state’s largest city. Though many Montanans enjoy visiting Billings for its “big city” cuisine and entertainment, out-of-staters will delight in its cowboyish charm—bolo ties on for big occasions, custom-made cowboy hats and one of the state’s largest rodeos.

You don’t need to be a local or even know about the history here to sense the chill of battle at the Little Bighorn Battlefield or feel the “big medicine” at Medicine Rocks State Park. You don’t have to be a cowboy to thrill at the Miles City Bucking Horse Sale or marvel at the Big Horn County Museum. But to really soak up Southeast Montana, you may have to get a little dirty—and sometimes a little snowy. After all, some of the best draws here are hunting, angling (especially for prehistoric paddlefish), dinosaur fossil hunting, mountain biking, horseback riding and agate-hounding.

Explorers here have a perfect Hollywood-Western backdrop: the sheer 1,000-foot plunge into Bighorn Canyon, Pompeys Pillar (complete with William Clark’s signature) and the surreal badlands formations at Makoshika State Park. Between cattle drives and dude ranches, snowshoeing trips and the Crow Fair and Rodeo, Southeast Montana is where the landscape, the history and the laid-back way of life join together to make a memorable Montana experience.

AT A GLANCE

+ The Jersey Lily is the only business still running in tiny Ingomar, located along US 12 between Forsyth and Roundup, but the bean soup is renowned around the state.

+ Near Billings, you’ll find Pictograph Cave State Park, thought to be inhabited prehistorically for about 10,000 years. Excavations in the area have unearthed almost 30,000 Paleo-Indian artifacts.

+ Makoshika (as in Makoshika State Park) translates into “land of bad spirits” in Lakota. It’s pronounced ma-KO-she-ka.

+ When Pierre Wibaux’s father sent money to build a Catholic church, Wibaux set the Norman French immigrants to task building a fancy old-Europe-style church, St. Peter’s, in the town of Wibaux.

+ 85 percent of the Crow on the Crow Reservation speak Crow as their first language.
KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

BEST TIME TO VISIT

To experience a powwow or a cattle drive, you’ll want to hit Southeast Montana in the summer. Fall is decidedly hunting season in these parts, and fly fishers happily fish on through the winter (and every other season). Hikers and mountain bikers can start exploring as soon as the snow melts in spring, on through the summer and into fall, when the weather is cool enough to keep sweatiness at bay. In the winter, cross-country skis and snowshoes turn the scenery into your playground, and if you want to get in some downhill turns, head to Red Lodge Mountain Resort, just an hour southwest of Billings.

HOW TO GET HERE

I-94 and I-90 constitute the main pipelines, with MT 59, US 12 and US 212 (also known as the Warrior Trail) branching off. Logan International Airport in Billings is the state’s largest and has direct flights from nine major U.S. cities year-round, with additional flights added for the summer months.

As you drive Southeast Montana’s scenic byways, remember to give horseback riders on the road plenty of clearance, and drive around them very slowly. If you encounter a cattle drive crossing the road, wait for signals from the cattlemen that it’s safe to move through.

WHAT TO PACK

If you’re heading to a cattle drive or working ranch, absolutely bring your cowboy boots! You’ll soon discover just how functional they really are. For general tromping about, you’ll want a good pair of tennis shoes or hiking boots and a few layers, especially a wind-resistant one. In the winter, gloves, hat, a warm parka and snow boots will most likely come in handy. Dress is casual here, and you’d be hard-pressed to tell a ranching baron from a farmhand on clothes alone. Blue jeans, sweatshirts and ball caps are the norm.

PHOTOGRAPHING TRIBAL CEREMONIES

Powwows and dances have deep religious significance and typically do not allow flash photography. Be sure to have permission before snapping photos at tribal ceremonies. For more information on proper etiquette while visiting the reservations and how to best enjoy your experience, contact tribal offices at visitmt.com/indianannations.

FOOD

Food runs the gamut in Southeast Montana, from Asian fusion picks in Billings to gourmet, locally grown fare found in unlikely little ranching towns like Broadus. Expect “homestyle prairie food”—beef steaks and potatoes. Soak up the town’s character and meet friendly locals by figuring out where the locals eat—in many small towns, the best restaurant or longest-standing bar serves as an informal community gathering spot. Also, we know beer isn’t food, but we would be remiss if we didn’t encourage you to sample Southeast Montana’s... authentic microbrewed beer from one of Billings’ many microbreweries, or from Beaver Creek Brewery in Wibaux, where the stout perfectly complements the homemade chocolate chip cookie included with every pint.

CROW RESERVATION The Crow (Apsáalooke) Tribe of Indians has a membership of approximately 12,000, 8,000 of whom reside on the Crow Indian Reservation. The town of Crow Agency is the tribal capital. The tribe calls itself Apsáalooke, which means “children of the large-beaked bird.” White men later misinterpreted the word as “Crow.” The Crow Indian Reservation is the largest of the state’s eight recognized Indian reservations, encompassing approximately 2.3 million acres. Feel the pride and experience the traditions of the Apsáalooke people, and take a cultural tour through the Big Horn College at Crow Agency. The Apsáalooke Nation Tribal Tourism Department, 406.638.3700, also offers specialized individual tours.

MILES CITY Steeped in history, Miles City remains a true Western town. Vast stretches of plains and badlands branch out in all directions. The Yellowstone and Tongue Rivers flow unblemished in long sections. Once the horse-trading and livestock center of the country, Miles City still lives the “West,” whether it’s in the 1950s-era main street, the authentically refurbished early 1900s saloon, the Bucking Horse Sale or museums and galleries that focus on range riders and Western artists who call Montana home.

ROUNDUP One of the many attractions in the Roundup area is the Musselshell Valley Historical Museum, which houses a coal tunnel, complete with wooden car, carbide lamps, lunch pails, displays, maps and photos. The Bull Mountains, south of Roundup, offer beautiful roadside geology and pine trees. North of town are oil wells, evidence of another rich mineral in the area. Eight miles north of Roundup is the Lake Mason National Wildlife Refuge where commonly observed wildlife includes long-billed curlews, upland sandpipers, sage grouse, pronghorn antelope and a variety of raptors. The Musselshell River, noted for its fine trout and catfish, also offers plentiful spots for relaxing picnics along its lazy banks.

TERRY is just northeast of Miles City. The town’s main attraction is the Prairie County Museum and Evelyn Cameron Gallery. The museum displays early-settler artifacts, and the gallery showcases the incredible photographs taken by Evelyn Cameron in the 1800s. Terry also sits on the edge of the Terry Badlands. The Calypso Trail, an old bootlegging road, allows vehicles (high clearance recommended) to explore this beautiful area. The town offers many services including the Kempton Hotel, known to be the haunt of friendly spirits and the oldest continuously operating hotel in Montana. 406.635.5598 www.visitterrymontana.com

WIBAUX is a friendly, Western town with a colorful history and a charming historic district. A visitor information center provides an introduction to the area and its history. Beaver Creek, which flows through Wibaux, has produced some big fish, including walleye and northern pike in excess of 10 pounds. Catfish and bullheads can also be caught in the creek, while panfish and trout are found in many area farm ponds. A public pond with picnic area is located on the edge of the city limits on MT 7 South. A blend of badlands and rolling hills offers fine photography and hunting for mule deer, white-tailed deer and pronghorn antelope. Upland game birds also are plentiful in some parts of this area. Deer, wild turkeys, beavers and a wide variety of songbirds are frequently spotted, sometimes right in town! 406.796.2412 www.visitmt.com/wibaux

NOTABLE SITES

BIG HORN COUNTY HISTORICAL MUSEUM is located one mile east of Hardin, only 15 miles from the famous Little Bighorn Battlefield. The museum complex consists of 23 historic structures; several small exhibit buildings and a main exhibit building that feature a rotating exhibit; and offices, a visitor center and a gift shop. This 22-acre site, once a flourishing vegetable farm, was donated in 1979 to the Big Horn County Historical Society for a museum. The farmhouse and barn are part of the original farm site. The other historic buildings have been moved to the museum from various locations in Big Horn County. Additional exhibits include horse-drawn equipment, farm machinery, tractors and early-day automobiles. Open all year (historic buildings are closed October 1 through May 1). 406.665.1671 www.bighorncountymuseum.org

MAKOSHKA STATE PARK To the Sioux Indians, Makoshika (pronounced ma-KOshe-ka) meant “land of bad spirits.” Today, as Montana’s largest state park, the pine- and juniper-studded badlands formations near Glendive house the fossil remains of such dinosaurs as Tyrannosaurus rex and Triceratops. You’ll find a visitor center at the park entrance with exhibits explaining the site’s geologic, fossil and prehistoric stories. During the winter, Makoshika State Park is an excellent backdrop for cross-country skiing and snowshoeing, conditions permitting. Open all year. PADDLEFISHING

What makes 3,000 excited anglers flock to a short section of Yellowstone River shoreline and beat the water to a froth by flailing it with heavier-than-usual fishing gear? Paddlefish!

Illustration of paddlefish

During late May and June, a special breed of angler travels to a rocky stretch of the river near Glendive, at the Intake Diversion Dam. Here, they rig up their saltwater fishing gear and churn the coffee-colored water to catch the senior citizen of the Yellowstone—the paddlefish. Paddlefish are also caught in lesser numbers at the mouths of the Tongue and Powder Rivers and the Forsyth Diversion Dam.

Ask a local for the best fishing places and techniques for catching these prehistoric fish. No time to fish? Take home some Yellowstone Caviar for a unique taste of southeastern Montana, found at the Glendive Chamber of Commerce. 406.234.0900 www.fwp.mt.gov/fishing

EVELYN CAMERON

To save her struggling horse ranch in 1894, Terry, Montana, homesteader Evelyn Cameron took up photography. While she was busy single-handedly running her ranch—milking cows, breaking colts and digging coal during her husband’s frequent absences—Evelyn found time to teach herself glass-plate photography. Soon, she was traveling up to 30 miles in a day to photograph friends, strangers, weddings and wildlife.

Inadvertently, Evelyn left behind a window into the past of the plains. Not only did her clear photos of sheepherders, railway workers and frontier women performing “men’s work” (like branding, plowing and roping) paint the absences—Evelyn found time to teach herself glass-plate photography. Soon, she was traveling up to 30 miles in a day to photograph friends, strangers, weddings and wildlife.

GETTING HERE

It’s easiest to explore Montana by car, so if you aren’t already driving here, make plans to rent a vehicle once you arrive. Fly into larger towns or roll in aboard Amtrak’s Empire Builder (traversing the northern half of the state), then drive a rental from wherever you land. If you plan on hitting backroads and gravel, or even just iffy weather, upgrade to four-wheel-drive for more traction. A high-clearance vehicle is necessary only for a few limited remote destinations like well-off-the-beaten-path trailheads.

You can also tour the state via commercial bus lines, which travel to major cities and some smaller towns, or join private bus tours.

AIR TRAVEL Direct flights (some seasonal) are available from Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Las Vegas, Salt Lake City, Phoenix, Denver, Minneapolis/St. Paul, Newark, Chicago, Portland and Atlanta. Go to visitmt.com/transportation/air_service for a list of airports and carriers.

RAIL TRAVEL Amtrak’s Empire Builder runs across northern Montana from Wolf Point through Havre, Glacier National Park and on to Libby. Bonus: there’s a glass-topped viewing car. www.amtrak.com

PASSPORT REQUIREMENT All persons traveling into the U.S. are required to present a passport or other valid travel document to enter or reenter the country. Visit cbp.gov for updated requirements.
TRAVELING WITHIN MONTANA

DRIVING IN MONTANA Montana’s highways are maintained year-round, and travel on the main roads shouldn’t be a problem in good weather. However, be prepared for long distances, sparsely populated areas, variable road conditions, a few steep mountain passes, storms, occasional two-way traffic and the possibility of wildlife, livestock and farm equipment on the road.

Montana lives up to its huge reputation—the most direct route from east to west takes more than ten hours to drive. The trip from Glacier National Park’s southernmost entrance to the northernmost entrance of Yellowstone takes a little over seven. To be a prepared traveler, always keep your gas tank more than half full and bring along water and some extra snacks, since distances between towns can be significant and services aren’t always open.

Montana’s dramatic topography, elevation extremes and northern climates can make for swift, unexpected changes in the weather, no matter what time of year. Visitor information centers around the state provide road and weather information. Most Montanans keep a spare coat stashed in the car for weather surprises—even in the summer—just in case.

Speed limits are posted, but occasionally it’s necessary to drive at reduced speed when road conditions such as snow, ice, heavy rain, fog or high winds require extra caution.

Beware the downside to Montana’s frequent wildlife sightings—deer, antelope, moose, bison and other animals sometimes leap into the road unpredictably. Be alert, especially near deer crossing signs and around dawn and dusk, when deer are most active. If you see any deer or elk at all, slow down and remember that others of the herd are likely nearby. Use your high beams when driving in darkness, unless oncoming cars prevent it.

VEHICLE RENTALS The majority of Montana travelers opt for the flexibility and freedom of driving. Various rental vehicles are available depending on your travel plans and companions. Find a listing of cities with car rentals at visitmt.com/carrentals.

VISITMT.COM
VisitMT.com is an encyclopedic, user-friendly resource for trip ideas and general wanderlust. Here, you’ll find a wealth of varied information—motorcycle route ideas, a compilation of powwows, craft breweries and wineries, ghost town rundowns and just about anything else you can think of.

AROUND TOWN Most larger towns have at least basic bus services, and a few taxi and shuttle services are available near the major airports. For in-town, fair-weather commuting, consider renting a bike from a local outdoor store.

BUSES AND BUS TOURS If you’d rather view the scenery than watch the road, a variety of private operators offer bus tours, and Greyhound serves major cities and some small towns. Yellowstone National Park and Glacier National Park both offer bus tours (nps.gov/yell and nps.gov/glac), and Glacier shuttles visitors through the park (nps.gov/glac/planyourvisit/shuttles.htm).

AIRPORT/SKI AREA SHUTTLES Airport shuttles whisk you from baggage claim to local lodging, and some ski resorts offer a daily shuttle from nearby towns.

SNOWPLOW SAFETY When you encounter a snowplow, know what to do:

+ Plows travel slowly, usually 25 to 30 miles per hour, so if you are stuck behind one, you may be tempted to pass. Before you do, keep in mind that snowplow drivers may have a difficult time seeing you, especially if they are clearing the road in front of them. Which raises another point—would you rather drive a freshly plowed road or have to break the trail?

+ Never pass a plow on the right. Some snowplows are equipped with a “wing plow,” an 8-foot extension off the right side of the truck that can be difficult to see.

+ Plows aren’t just removing snow. They also spread sand or deicer on the road. Leave enough room between the plow and your vehicle to avoid being sprayed.
NATIONAL FORESTS

Montana is home to 16.8 million acres of publicly accessible national forests and grasslands—roughly the total land area of Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts combined. "Forest" here takes a broad definition, ranging from the rugged mountaintops and steep, timbered canyons of western Montana to the badlands and prairies of eastern Montana.

There are multiple ways to make the most of these protected lands, starting with 15 downhill ski areas operating with special-use permits on national forest land. Cross-country skiers have their pick of over 400 miles (644 km) of designated ski-touring trails, along with thousands of miles of ungroomed recreational territory, while snowmobilers can explore more than 2,500 miles of designated trails and endless backcountry. When the snow melts, the national forests give hikers, bikers, rock climbers, anglers and backpackers access to a lifetime (or more) worth of adventures.

You don’t necessarily need a tent to stay overnight in the national forests; instead, try bunking in one of the Forest Service’s rustic cabins or lookouts. Cabins are furnished with the bare basics (table, chairs, woodstove and bunks), but you’ll need to bring your own bedding. For a Recreational Cabin and Lookout Directory, contact the individual national forest (see contact information below) or go to www.recreation.gov.

A Guide to Your Northern Region National Forests describes the national forests in Montana—pick one up from the U.S.D.A. Forest Service, Northern Region, www.fs.usda.gov/r1, or the individual national forest.

WINTER SAFETY

WIND CHILL

With wind chill, winds make cold temperatures feel measurably colder. 30 degrees on a windy day is the virtual equivalent of a calm 15 degrees. Exposure to cold, biting air for long periods of time can put you at risk for frostbite, frostnip, hypothermia and other health complications. See Wind Chill Chart to the left.

HYPOTHERMIA

Use a winter vacation in Montana as an excuse to update your wardrobe and invest in mittens and hats—all good prevention against the bane of winter outdoor activities: hypothermia. Hypothermia occurs when the body temperature drops to less than 95°F, bringing on uncontrollable shivering, slow speech, memory lapses, frequent stumbling, drowsiness and exhaustion.

If you suspect hypothermia in one of your travel companions (or yourself), retreat to warm shelter as soon as possible. Warm the person slowly, starting with the trunk and moving to arms and legs last, and seek immediate medical assistance. If possible, change the victim into dry clothing and wrap him or her in a blanket or sleeping bag. You can use your own body heat to help speed the warming process.

Never give a hypothermia victim caffeine or alcohol. Both can hasten the ill effects of cold body temperatures.

AVAILANCe SAFETY

Before heading onto snowy slopes, make sure that you’re well-educated about the conditions that cause avalanches and prepared to handle one if needed. Call the local avalanche center hotline, visit their websites (listed below), take an avalanche class, review the North American Public Avalanche Danger Scale at left and always carry the proper equipment. Understanding the basics of terrain, weather, snowpack and human factors that contribute to avalanches will help prevent needless tragedy in the backcountry.

STOP AQUATIC HITCHHIKERS

With just three easy steps, you can do your part to help stop the spread of aquatic invasive species, like plants, mussels and parasites in Montana’s waters.

1. INSPECT
After leaving a lake or stream, inspect your boat, engine, trailer, anchor, waders and other fishing and boating gear for mud, water and vegetation that could carry aquatic invasive species.

2. CLEAN
Completely remove all mud, water and vegetation you find. Boaters should use a pressurized power sprayer, found at most do-it-yourself car washes. The hot water helps kill organisms and the pressure removes mud and vegetation. No need to use soap or chemicals.

3. DRY
Aquatic invaders can survive only in water and wet areas. By drying your boating and fishing equipment thoroughly, you will kill most invasive species. The longer you can keep your boat, trailer, waders, wading boots and other equipment outside in the hot sun between fishing trips, the better.

Remember, it is unlawful to move live fish, aquatic invertebrates or plants from one body of water to another without authorization from Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks. It is also unlawful to release any live aquarium or bait fish.
